Far Out, Upon the Desert, Why Do We Waste Life? Salt Stays in the Ocean, Vitamins Replacing War.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

HODGE, Cal., Nov. 25.

TO STOP WORRYING about superfluous things and realize how little is necessary, come to this desert country, 2,300 feet above sea level, 70 miles back from the Pacific Ocean.

You will not "make money," in the usual meaning of the words, and if you make a bare living you will work hard for it. But you will have more of real life than anybody slaving in an anthill city.

THE WIDE LEVEL desert stretches in every direction with mountains of many colors on the horizon. A most beautiful sky and glorious sun above. Not a cloud as big as your hand in the bright blue.

The cow gives five gallons of rich milk, living on alfalfa grown beside her, under irrigation. A good horse is ready to take you anywhere on your 4,000 or 5,000 acres of desert land and 1,000,000 more acres adjoining.

TEN ACRES are enough, and you can buy them from the government or the Southern Pacific Railroad for $10 an acre and less. You sit here, as isolated as Robinson Crusoe, with telephone, radio, newspapers from Los Angeles, telegraph office within reach. A little private, quiet world within a big, noisy world.

And you wonder why you ever played the fool's game in life, borrowing millions to erect tall buildings, worrying about renting and paying for them, doing 10,000 things unnecessary.

NEARLY ALL that we do is a waste of life. But we must live at least 50 years to know that, and then it is too late to change and live sanely.

Your buildings are there, and your taxes, your lawyers, your corporations, and like Frost's farmer that yoked himself up with the bull calf, you must go along.

THERE WILL be no cessation of population growth on this Pacific Coast, until the saturation point is reached. That, fortunately, is far off. For airplanes will make town lots of Pacific Coast mountain tops now bare, and this desert, far from movies and sodawater fountains, will be safe many a year for those that like solitude, and are unlike Schopenhauer's "Negroes that cannot get enough of one another's snubnosed company and like to crowd. I am told, 50 in one small room."

POPULATION ON this coast MUST increase without ceasing, as salt increases in the ocean. Almost twice as salty now as when our ancestors lived in it hundreds of millions of years ago. Salt, once it gets in the ocean, CANNOT get out, for only pure water is lifted by the sun's rays. Human beings, when they get into this beautiful country, perfect climate and atmosphere of genuine democracy, WILL not leave it.

Gerard Murray, of the Los Angeles Auburn-Pullen Company, who rushes you up the Cajon Pass, 4,000 feet high, at 70 miles an hour in a CORD (not Ford) car, tells you as a favor that THIS is the time for you to buy a house out here.

"You can get as fine a house as any man wants for from $5,000 to $8,000, and for as little as $100 down."

He is from Wilmington, Del., his wife from Ohio. Will they ever go back?

"We shall never live anywhere but here. There isn't any other place fit to live in."

He speaks for 1,000,000 others in Los Angeles alone, and if you say that you like a cold winter and feel that the Pacific Ocean is too far away, they pity you.

COME OUT for the Olympic games next year, if you like excitement with your travels. California is widening highways for the automobile rush, railroads are making special preparations.

Be able to say, when you reach Heaven:

"Yes, I saw the earth, at least all of it that is really important, the UNITED

PLANS CALL FOR VIADUCT OVER P.R.R.

Plans for a viaduct, tunnel and street project connecting the Sixteenth Street Bridge, on the Allegheny River, by way of Moultrie street, with the Twenty-second Street Bridge, on the Monongahela River, were revealed in City Council this afternoon.

A tentative outline of the proposed route has been made by the City Planning Commission. Councilman John M. Phillips is taking a deep interest in the projected development.

The tunnel would be 3,600 feet long and would enter the hill under Bigelow boulevard, just above the tracks of the Pennsylvania Railroad. The southern portal would be close to Kirkpatrick street, while a new street would be developed diagonally across city-owned property in the vicinity of the playground, to connect with Moultrie street.

MAY MOVE BRIDGE

This route would give easy access to the Twenty-second Street Bridge, near Brady street, which it is expected, will some day be rebuilt at Twenty-first street, which would then connect directly with Moultrie street. Such an improvement would make an exceedingly short traffic line between the north side of the Allegheny River and the south side of the Monongahela.

The proposed plans call for a viaduct to cross Penn avenue and the Pennsylvania Railroad, from the Sixteenth Street Bridge, with ramps in Fifteenth and Seventeenth street to provide proper access to the Sixteenth Street Bridge. Pike street also would be used partly for ramp purposes.

SECOND TUNNEL

Councilman Phillips also has a further project in mind which would connect Twenty-second street with Becks Run road by constructing another short tunnel through the hills.

It is claimed that the building of the proposed viaduct and tunnel connecting the Sixteenth Street Bridge on the Allegheny and the Twenty-second Street Bridge on the Monongahela, would divert much north and south traffic from the downtown section.

Chinese Mass For Protection Of Great Wall

Japanese troops have occupied the important city of Hsinmin on the Peiping Mukden Railway as part of renewed military activity in South Manchuria expected to result in capture of Chinchow.

Edward Hunter, International News Service correspondent, who arrived at Hsinmin from Chinchow as the occupation began, reported being greeted by a salvo of blank cartridges fired from a Japanese armored car outside the station, Japanese officers explaining the firing was meant to intimidate bandits surrounding the city.

NEW MAY WEST PLAY BANNED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Mae West's play, "The Constant Sinner," was closed today as the result of a threat by District Attorney Leo A. Rover to arrest the company if another performance were given.

Upon the recommendation of Assistant District Attorney Michael F. Keogh, who attended last night's performance, Rover said a repetition of the act would result in charges of obscenity and indecency against the cast. Maximum penalties are one year imprisonment and $500 fine.

Miss West enacts the part of "Babe Gordon" in the play, which is based upon an underworld theme.

Dr. Orr, Militant Vice Foe, Engaged to Teacher

Romance today had captured the attention of the Rev. Dr. J. Alvin Orr, once a militant anti-vice crusader.

His engagement to Miss Mary Wilson Edie, teacher of English at Herron High School, was announced by her mother, Mrs. Robert J. Edie, of Mercer, Pa.

The pastor of the First United Presbyterian Church, North Side, was a leader of the crusade against vice waged five years ago. The first Mrs. Orr died in 1929.

Miss Edie's home is in Mercer. A graduate of Geneva College, she is in her fourth year at Herron High. Formerly she taught at New Brighton for five years.

She is a member of the United Presbyterian Church of Mercer. When asked today if it were true she never had heard Dr. Orr preach, she laughed.

Dr. Orr said the wedding would not take place before the new year.

SERUM AIDS MIX IN BATTLE FOR LIFE

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 25.—(AP.)—America's boydom hero, Tom Mix, who at various times in his career has been a cowboy of real life, of the screen and of the circus, was near death today.

Beset by peritonotis which followed the rupture of his appendix, Mix spent a fairly comfortable night, but his physician, Dr. R. N. Smith, reported that it will be three or four days before the crisis is past. Dr. Smith said:

"Everything is as well as can be expected under the circumstances. His iron constitution will go a long way in determining the final outcome and he is putting up a courageous fight."

Serum to fight the infection was brought by airplane from San Francisco. An injection was given the stricken actor within an hour after the plane landed here.

Mix had not been feeling well for several days. His condition, however, did not take a serious turn until Monday afternoon. His case was diagnosed as appendicitis and an emergency operation was performed. The appendix had ruptured, his physician stated.

Dr. Smith said Mix is conscious and aware of his serious condition.

At the Mix home in DuBois today the movie star's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Mix, said she had received a telegram from her son informing her he was "resting." Mrs. Mix said she had no plans to go to her son's bedside.

Fred Niblo Gains After Operation

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Nov. 25.—(AP.)—Fred Niblo, famous film director and husband of Enid Bennett, actress, was operated on yesterday for appendicitis. His physician reported his condition satisfactory.

In the same hospital is Gertrude Olmstead, film actress, and wife of Robert Z. Leonard, director. Her ailment was said to be an infected tooth and her condition was reported as not serious.

Woman Unconscious In Mystery Attack

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—(AP.)—Mrs. Edna Pierson, a 29-year-old widow, was found, unclothed and unconscious, propped against a door in a Bronx building today. She had apparently been attacked with a sashweight.

Mercury at 20 Seen Tonight in Winter's Debut

Winter's first blast hit Pittsburgh and environs today, with prospect of the temperature slumping to 20 degrees in outlying districts tonight.

Supplanting the mild Indian summer, the cold swept in from the Northwest on the heels of rain last night. At noon the mercury had fallen to 35 at the Weather Bureau and to around freezing in the suburbs.

FLURRIES FORECAST

Light snow flurries here are possible, Forecaster W. S. Brotzman said, but there is no likelihood of a white Thanksgiving tomorrow. Mostly fair, crisp weather will prevail, he said. The maximum temperature during the day tomorrow will be around freezing.

FAIR AND COLDER

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—(AP.)—Generally fair—but colder—weather will form the background of the nation's Thanksgiving feast tomorrow.

The East, warmed by balmy southern winds for a month, will share the brisk, snappy cold with the rest of the country, with possibility of freezing temperatures in the morning.

The Middle West, chilled by recent ice and snow, is expected to warm up tomorrow. The Lake Superior district will have snow.

Frost will make its appearance in Georgia and South Carolina tonight.

THREE KILLED AT CROSSING

HOMER CITY, Pa., Nov. 25.—Enroute to town for the Thanksgiving shopping, three persons were killed and five others injured, four of them seriously, when their sedan auto was struck by a Pennsylvania passenger train at Elm street crossing here at 8:45 o'clock this morning.

The dead are Jasper Kunkle, 40; Mrs. Albert McHolan, 35, and the latter's 12-year-old son, Donald.

Four of the victims taken to Indiana Hospital are Mrs. Cora Kunkle, 42, and three children of Mrs. McHolan, Claire, 6; Blaine, 5, and Marian, 3. A fourth child, Ralph Kunkle, 2 years, was being cared for in Homer City, after being treated by a physician.

The Kunkle and McHolan families are neighbors, residing about a mile and a half from town. Kunkle, a carpenter and musician came to town to arrange for playing at a dance tonight, while his wife and Mrs. McHolan with the children, did the marketing.

Samuel Taylor, Blairsville, engineer of the train, said the car approached the crossing at about 25 miles an hour and apparently the driver did not see the train or hear its whistle.

M'KEESPORT MILLS GO ON FULL TIME

Welcome Thanksgiving news was flashed to 3,000 employes of the McKeesport Tin Plate Company today with announcement that the 44 mills of the company will go on full time at midnight Sunday.

A corps of mechanics began today getting half the mills, formerly idle, in shape for resumption.

No extra employes will be taken on, W. T. Brownscombe, general manager, stated. The force of employes has been kept intact by pro-rating the work, he said. They are said to have been averaging three days a week.

Brownscombe said:

"We plan to continue full operation during December. After that, operation will depend on orders."

Pittsburgh Trade Conditions Improve

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—(AP.)—General bolstering of business conditions in Pittsburgh was reported today by the President's organization on unemployment relief.

Pinchot Offers To 'Match' Davis Job Relief Gifts

HARRISBURG, Nov. 25.—Gov. Gifford Pinchot, who last week tried unsuccessfully to obtain a loan of $1,000,000 for his proposed unemployment relief fund from Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon, today offered to "match" any contributions or loans made by Senator James J. Davis.

It was the Governor's answer to criticism by Senator Davis of Pinchot's endeavor to secure the million from Mellon.

In a letter today to Pennsylvania's junior senator, whose name has figured the last few days in the sugar lobby probe at Washington, Gov. Pinchot suggested:

1—That Davis give as large a donation to unemployment relief as Pinchot.

2—That Davis agree to lend as much as Pinchot to the "prosperity bond" relief plan now before the Legislature.

3—That both make public their welfare contributions.

4—That both make public their income tax statements for 1930.

GOVERNOR IRKED

The appointment was made by Administrator John D. Pennington, of the Pennsylvania-New Jersey-Delaware area, with the approval of the Civil Service Commission and the Federal Director of Prohibition Col. Amos W. W. Woodcock.

Krause was named deputy administrator to succeed Harold D. (Three Gun) Wilson, whose raid on the Amen Corner picnic, near McKees Rocks, attended by political leaders of Pittsburgh and Allegheny County, in July, 1930, was followed by his transfer to Delaware two months later.

Banking Improvement Seen In Fewer Loan Requests

Decided improvement in the banking situation is indicated by the small volume of loan applications made to the National Credit Corporation, A. E. Braun, president of the Farmers Deposit National Bank and a director of the organization formed to administer President Hoover's $500,000,000 bank credit pool, told a meeting of 30 Western Pennsylvania bankers yesterday, according to an announcement made today by Sidney B. Congdon, local manager of the corporation.

Braun told the bankers that the National Credit Corporation is fully organized. Subscriptions to its notes are being received daily. Ample funds are available.

The meeting was held at the Duquesne Club to acquaint bankers in outlying communities with the work of the corporation. The bankers in attendance were outspoken in their approval of the plan and promised full support, according to the statement.

Braun, who presided, appointed the bankers in attendance members of a committee to disseminate information on the corporation in this district.

The meeting was attended by members of the loan committee for this district.

ELUDE GUARD TO SEEK JOB AID

Twenty-five Communists eluded police precautions today and gained the County Commissioners' office as the culminating feature of a meeting held by hundreds of members of their organization in West Park, North Side.

A tattered but orderly crowd, the Communists appeared in the Commissioners' office a few minutes after their parade through the downtown and North Side, which followed the meeting, ended.

HEAD FOR KLINE'S OFFICE

Commissioners E. V. Babcock and C. C. McGovern were out of the building.

Disappointed, the spokesman, Harry Harvey, asked James E. Routley to arrange a conference.

Routley told Harvey that he would be informed of the date of the next regular Commissioners' meeting.

ANTI-PINCHOT RELIEF PLAN ADVANCED

Assembly Adjourns Facing Bitter Fight as Governor Refuses to Yield Position

HARRISBURG, Nov. 25 (AP)—Amid rumblings of a battle over unemployment relief measures, the State Legislature adjourned last night for the Thanksgiving week end.

Next Monday the lawmakers will come back for what observers [illegible] will be a finish fight [illegible] and anti-[illegible] forces.

The administration forces will come forward with a [illegible] which provides for the expenditure of $12,500,000 [illegible] of 3 cent gasoline tax revenues. Beauty Drops Name Of Mate She Killed

MRS. CHARLOTTE ISABEL NIXON . . . NOT NIXON-NIRDLINGER!

Nixon-Nirdlinger Widow Acts to Shun Notoriety

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 25 (INS)—By reason of the notoriety and embarrassment attached to the name of Nixon-Nirdlinger, Mrs. Charlotte Nash Nixon-Nirdlinger, under a decree by Judge Edwin O. Lewis in Common Pleas Court was authorized yesterday to change her name to Charlotte Isabel Nixon.

As Miss St. Louis, Charlotte Nash won the 1927 beauty pageant at Atlantic City, N. J. The following winter she married Frederick Goodwin Nixon-Nirdlinger, wealthy theatrical man of Philadelphia. As a result of domestic strife she shot and killed her husband at Nice, France, last March.

The decree of the court also permits her to change the name of her two children, Frederick Goodwin Nixon-Nirdlinger, Jr., 4, and Charlotte Lee, 2. The boy will be known as Charles Richard Nixon and the little girl as Charlotte Nixon.

In her petition for change of name the young woman set forth that she is a resident of Philadelphia and has been domiciled here since her marriage Feb. 5, 1924, until March 11, 1931, the date of her husband's death.

CHINESE MASS TO PROTECT GREAT WALL

Koo Issues 'Ultimatum;' Japan Refuses to Accept League Peace Proposal

tion of troops from Manchuria simultaneously with appointment of a neutral commission to investigate the situation.

By EDWARD HUNTER
International News Service

HSINMIN, Manchuria, Nov. 25—Arriving here tonight from Chinchow, reported next objective of the Japanese army in Manchuria, I encountered a Japanese armored car parked at the railway station firing off blank shots.

This it was explained was a demonstration to ward off bandits who are threatening to attack this walled city 40 miles south of Mukden on the Peiping-Mukden Railway. The Japanese had occupied this town earlier in the day.

Other troops are going to nearby villages for similar demonstrations in this region against the so-called bandit menace.

CHINESE MASSING

At Chinchow I found the remnants of Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang's Manchurian army making hurried preparations for the expected Japanese offensive whose reported aim is to drive the last Chinese soldier south of the Great Wall.

With Japanese detachments reported approaching from the region of Mukden, Chinese soldiers are hastily throwing up trenches along the railway outside Chinchow. Cavalry patrols are active outside the city and Chinchow itself is thronged with soldiers.

Similar scenes can be observed in villages nearby, according to foreign observers just returned from an observation tour.

Gen. Yung Cheng however, told International News Service that instead of the army of 100,000 to 200,000 men the Japanese claim he possesses in this vicinity he actually has "below 30,000 men."

Assisting Gen. Yung Cheng in the defense preparations is Gen. Mi Ching-Lin, who was director of the Mukden arsenal when the Japanese occupied the city and fled to Chinchow with other associates of Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang.

HOPES SLIGHT

Military leaders admit the chance of resisting successfully a general Japanese attack is very slight but they intend to do their best. The Chinese garrison appears to be composed mostly of schoolboys, whereas the Japanese are well-trained and equipped.

Foreigners, for the most part, are leaving Chinchow, fearing more Japanese air raids as the action nears Chuchow.

A French priest, Father Prosper Cordon, showed me where a bomb had chipped the mantle in his home in the last Japanese air raid that caused such energetic Chinese protests to the League of Nations a month ago. The residences of a British mission group and of Dr. Thomas Fulton and Mrs. Fulton and Dr. Morris McIntyre of the Irish Presbyterian Mission are nearby.

China Issues Ultimatum For Japan to Withdraw

By ARNO DOSCH-FLEUROT
International News Service

QUAI D'ORSAY, PARIS, Nov. 25—In an attempt to gain the upper hand in the Manchurian conflict, Dr. Alfred Sze, Chinese delegate, today delivered to the League of Nations Council what was characterized on all sides as an "ultimatum" to Japan.

The "ultimatum" consisted of a set of detailed instructions from Dr. Wellington Koo, China's new minister of foreign affairs. In them, Dr. Sze was told to accept appointment of a neutral commission to investigate Manchuria only if Japan will agree to evacuate her troops within 15 days after the resolution appointing the commission is adopted.

The effect of his informal presentation of the instructions was like a bombshell. Members of the council and United States Ambassador Dawes stood aghast. The American Ambassador, it was understood, lost no time in telling Dr. Sze the instructions were packed full of dynamite. Others labelled them as a flat "ultimatum," declaring such action at the present time would "never do."

Meanwhile Ambassador Kenkichi Yoshizawa, of Japan, was instructed today by Tokio to reject the league proposal for an armistice.

Yoshizawa was informed that Japan could not consent to the hampering of her military policy.

PINCHOT WILL 'MATCH' DAVIS

the Governor, despite the surface cordiality of today's letter, was made last week in an address before the State Council of Republican Women here.

Gov. Pinchot, who had called upon Secretary Mellon the day before in Washington, had just concluded his address and left the hall when Senator Davis followed him to the platform. In a semi-comic vein, the Pittsburgher said that he "assumed" the Governor was going to contribute to his own program, and suggested that Pinchot himself loan a million.

So far as a contribution or loan of that size is concerned, however, Gov. Pinchot says in his letter:

"You do my bank account too much honor."

Both the Senator and Governor are credited with being rich men, the former from organization of the Loyal Order of Moose, and the latter from inheritance of the Pinchot family fortune.

PINCHOT'S LETTER

Text of the Governor's letter follows:

"Hon. James J. Davis,
"United States Senate,
"Washington, D. C.
"Dear Jim:

"My attention has been called to a suggestion recently made by you before the Council of Republican Women at Harrisburg, in connection with my request to Mr. Mellon that he lend a million dollars to unemployment relief in Pennsylvania. You were quoted as saying that if I want a million for that purpose I ought to give it myself. You do my bank account too much honor.

"In view of your suggestion, I have this proposal to make:

"First, that you agree to give outright as large a percentage of your income as I do of mine to unemployment relief in Pennsylvania:

"Second, that you agree to lend as large a percentage of your income as I do of mine to unemployment relief when the Legislature has passed the bill authorizing such loan contributions;

"Third, that you and I make public our contributions up to date and as we make them hereafter;

"Fourth, that we join in making public also our income tax statements for 1930, as filed with the Treasury Department, and that we do so on the same day within the next two weeks.

"Sincerely yours,

"Signed: Gifford Pinchot."

HOLDUP ALARM GIVEN BY BOY

After binding the manager and forcing a 16-year-old school boy clerk into a cellar, two bandits early today held up a F. H. Butler Company store at 3902 Churchview avenue, Brentwood, and escaped with a small amount of money.

The youth, Clark Frank Yost, 16, of Baldwin Township, escaped from the cellar through a window and ran to the Brentwood Police Station where he notified police of the holdup. The bandits fled before the arrival of police.

Ziefel's rule has been in the office in six months. After Armstrong's defeat for renomination, he created a tempest when he tried to suspend county employes.

Thanksgiving!

By GEORGE F. PHAIR

"I thank Thee, Lord," the workman said
For all Thy golden wheat
Enough to flood the world with bread
Though I have none to eat.

"I thank Thee for the cotton bales
That tower high in the air
To fend the world from wintry gales
Though I have naught to wear.

"I thank Thee for the whirring wheels
That fashion shoes to wear
Although the stony pavement feels Unkind when soles are bare.

"I thank Thee for the teeming herds
That graze on grasses sweet
Though statesmen fling me empty words
Instead of good red meat.

"And though the landlord's heart is cold
Against my last appeal
I thank Thee, Lord, for all the gold
That fills our vaults of steel!"

Snowden Seated as Peer, Pompous Rites Altered

LONDON, Nov. 25—(AP)—Philip Snowden, first viscount of Ickornshaw, clad in robes of scarlet and ermine, took his seat in the House of Lords today.

The pompous ceremony of centuries past was altered for the little man who, hero of innumbered fights in the House of Commons, has become a peer of the realm.

Other peers, on taking their seats, have knelt and delivered letters patent to the Lord Chancellor. Viscount Snowden, leaning heavily upon his two canes, and weighted down by the gorgeous robes of his new office, merely bowed his head.

Lord Chancellor Sankey, in consideration of the physical infirmities of the former chancellor of the exchequer, arose and shook the new viscount's hand, obviating the necessity of kneeling for presentation.

$50,000 DONATION CHEERS WORKERS IN WELFARE DRIVE

COUNTY GOAL SHORTAGE NOW $2,225,000

Campaign for Needy Lags As Deadline Nears; Final Reports Due Monday Noon

A list of Welfare Fund donors appears on Page 8.

A subscription of $50,000 to the joint campaign of the Welfare Fund and the Allegheny County Emergency Association by Mrs. Henry R. Rea, of Sewickley, was a feature of today's reports of gifts by the auditors.

Mrs. Rea's subscription ranks among the highest to the fund so far. Others were $300,000 from Andrew W. Mellon and R. B. Mellon; $40,000 from W. L. Mellon; $54,000 from Mr. and Mrs. George W. Crawford; and $50,000 from the estate of Virginia A. McKee. Helen Clay Frick subscribed $26,000.

Mrs. Rea's gift was included in the totals of Monday, but did not come through from the Sewickley division until last night.

With less than a week of the campaign remaining, the fund of approximately $6,000,000 was still short $2,225,000 of the goal. The lowest point of the campaign was reached yesterday when subscriptions totaling $95,000 were reported by workers.

Donations reported yesterday raised the total to $3,722,976.04. The goal of the workers is $5,981,184. The employes division again led the day's report when it turned in 4,750 subscriptions totaling $53,795.31. Up to date a total of 59,179 subscribers are represented in the total raised.

The workers will continue their efforts through the remainder of the week and make their final reports at a meeting Monday noon.

McKeesport workers will meet today in the Penn-McKee Hotel to make their final reports. More than $91,000 has been raised there. S. J. Wilson, chairman of the Clairton workers, reported $2,730 as the first total from that unit. The complete returns from the Oakmont-Verona district now total nearly $10,000 and in Dormont and Mt. Lebanon, which previously had raised $9,070, new subscriptions for a total of $3,907 were announced.

In the East End more than 100 workers met in McCann's yesterday and turned in subscriptions totaling $10,000, according to Fred C. Haller, chairman. Up to date this unit has reported more than $46,000.

'ALF' TAYLOR, EX-GOVERNOR, DIES AT 83

'Sage of Happy Valley' Ran Against Brother in Famed Tennessee 'War of Roses'

JOHNSON CITY, Tenn., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Former Gov. Alfred A. Taylor, the 83-year-old "Sage of Happy Valley," whose colorful career in Tennessee politics brought him national prominence, died early today at Appalachian Hospital here.

It was he who participated in the famous War of the Roses, a campaign for the governorship that he and his brother, Bob Taylor, waged side by side against one another.

That war is still fought by the firesides in Tennessee's mountains.

CAMPAIGNED TOGETHER

Alf was nominated for the governorship by the Republicans and his brother, "Fiddling Bob," Robert Love Taylor, was nominated by the Democrats. The two campaigned in the same buggy, debating by day and sleeping together by night.

If their father, old Col. Nathaniel Taylor, had not made the decision to let his sons fight it out, that campaign might have been still more a family affair, for he was urged to run as the Prohibition party's candidate.

One night Bob and Alf stopped at Bridgeport, Ala., after a rally at Madisonville, Tenn., and their hostess, thrilled by the sentiment of the campaign, pinned a red rose on Alf and a white rose on Bob. She said:

"Wear these for your mother. I know she is proud of two sons who can differ so in politics and still love each other."

WAR OF ROSES

So it became the war of the roses. Alf entertained his crowds with his fox hunting tales and Bob fiddled. The fiddle won and Bob went to the governor's chair, and Alf came back to Happy Valley and his fox hunting.

Alf Taylor had left a seat in the national House of Representatives to make the race and in 1889 his district returned him to the post where he served until 1895. In 1920 his party again called on him to run for Governor and he won.

It was no "war of the roses" then. Bob had died while serving in the United States Senate. In 1922, "Uncle Alf" again was defeated for Governor and returned to his home in Happy Valley.

DIVERS TO BARE LUSITANIA'S SECRET

'Steel Stairway' to Wreckage Soon May Settle Dispute Over Munitions in Cargo

By CHARLES J. McGUIRK
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—The 17-year-old bitter argument as to whether the Cunard liner Lusitania carried munitions in such quantities as to warrant her sinking by the German U-20 under the command of Capt. Commander Schwieger eight miles off the Irish coast on the afternoon of May 7, 1915, is due shortly to be settled for all time.

The Lake-Railey expedition, which will soon set out with a "steel-enclosed stairway," a tube invented by Simon Lake, inventor of the submarine and the instrument which will peer into the wreck, are going mainly for the purpose of settling that question.

Of course, there is also a treasure trove of $250,000 to be salvaged. When the Lusitania slid silently down the Hudson River on May 1 to go to her doom with the death of 1,193 passengers, she carried that money to a nation at war. But even if that is found, it will no more than cover the cost of the expedition.

If the British government gives Capt. H. H. Railey and Simon Lake the required permission to search the wreck, those hardy adventurers are going to look on some strange and gruesome sights.

They are going to see bodies fastened in between decks. They are going to find wrecks of the lifeboats that went with their mother ship to the ocean death. They are going to see a safe from which they will take the records.

And among those records will be found the orders that will prove whether the Lusitania sailed the seas as an innocent merchantman or as a converted ship of war sailing under sealed orders.

The Lake-Railey Lusitania expedition will leave New York for a point eight miles off Old Head, Kinesale, Ireland. There in 240 feet of water, standing on her beam ends, they will find the derelict that brought America into the great war on the side of the Allies.

RELIEF QUOTAS MET IN OHIO

CLEVELAND, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Three of Ohio's largest cities have raised the largest community funds in their history, and a fourth was confident of reaching the mark today.

Cleveland's campaign ended last night with pledges of $5,680,026, more than $30,000 to spare over the goal of $5,650,000. Columbus, asking $897,098, raised $912,457, and Akron exceeded its quota of $639,525 by more than $23,000. Dayton, with today left to go, was only $252,575 short of its goal of $975,067.

Lancaster Tops Fund Drive Quota

LANCASTER, Pa., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Lancaster's 1931 welfare drive ended last night with $315,000 pledged. The amount was $4,000 more than was asked. Last year $261,795 was collected.

Philadelphia Fund Two-Thirds Raised

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Officials of the Philadelphia united charities drive said yesterday contributions so far totaled $6,501,699, more than two-thirds of the $9,000,000 sought.

Visits to Daughter Of Rockefeller Spur Rumors

CHICAGO, Nov. 25.—(AP)—The rumors of Harold F. McCormick's matrimonial intentions have focused, the Daily News said, upon a possible remarriage with Edith Rockefeller McCormick.

His first marriage, in 1895, united the scion of the harvester inventor with the daughter of John D. Rockefeller. They were divorced in 1921, and McCormick was divorced a second time, recently, from Ganna Walska, the Polish prima donna.

At the McCormick home and at Mrs. McCormick's Lake Shore drive residence nothing was said of the rumor. But the Daily News commented that the manufacturer had been seen calling at the home of his first wife.

There was also the possibly significant rapprochement of Mrs. McCormick and Mathilde McCormick Oser and her husband. They had been estranged since Mathilde married the Swiss riding master, against maternal desires. Mrs. McCormick has not left Chicago for 10 years.

HITS COERCION IN JOB RELIEF

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Senator Couzens today threatened an investigation of complaints that civil service employes in Washington were being "dragooned and otherwise intimidated to subscribe to charity."

The Michigan Republican, a member of the Civil Service Committee, assailed a statement attributed to J. B. Gordon, District of Columbia sanitary engineer, that officially the contributions were to be voluntary, but unofficially those who failed to contribute three days' pay spread over three months would be "marked men" in the government, Couzens said.

"It is the most outrageous statement I have ever seen printed. It is supposed to be based on instructions from the President, and that I much doubt."

Priest Strangled, Robbed in Sick Bed

MELK, Austria, Nov. 25—(AP)—The Rev. Ignaz Kathrein, a priest who spent some years in America, was found strangled and robbed today in his sick bed in the historic old abbey here.

'HEXED' WOMAN ACCUSES UNCLE

Mrs. Gertrude Krape, 21, testified in Morals Court today she had left her husband, L. M. Krape, of 17 Brightridge street, to go to New York with her uncle, J. C. Shump, 51, of 106 East Ohio street, because her uncle "worked a spell" on her.

Shump, who said he was married and the father of two children, admitted he and Mrs. Krape had dyed their hair to disguise themselves. Arrested on complaint of Mrs. Krape's husband, he was turned over to federal authorities for possible prosecution under the Mann act.

Communists Delay White House March

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—(AP)—The White House Communist demonstration which failed to materialize yesterday now is promised for Friday afternoon.

The police reserves, which all for naught hurriedly converged upon the executive mansion from all directions yesterday, probably will be on the job again Friday to keep the crowd orderly.

headed for Mayor Charles H. Kline's office.

Earlier in the day two men were arrested when Communists from Allegheny Valley towns, traveling in eight trucks, attempted to stage a demonstration in front of the Allegheny County Workhouse in Freeport road near Aspinwall.

DRIVER SLUGGED

Fred Bell, giving his address as 611 Penn avenue, an organizer for the International Labor Defense, was arrested as he attempted to make a speech from the rear of a truck, demanding release of Thomas Myerscough, National Miners Union field worker, and others convicted of mine strike rioting.

He was held on a charge of attempting to incite a riot.

John Pascek, driver of Bell's truck, was arrested and slugged as city and county detectives, uniformed city police, deputy sheriffs and workhouse guards posted along the walls to block the demonstration swarmed over the trucks.

He was released later when he convinced authorities that he merely had been hired to drive the truck.

DEMAND AID OF STATE

Several hundred Communists met in West Park shortly after noon and heard speakers berate the state and national governments and denounce the Welfare Fund.

The speakers also demanded the state pay each unemployed worker $25 with $50 extra for each dependent, furnish free food and clothing for school children of jobless and see that "no one employed after a certain hour goes home for non-payment of rent."

After the meeting the Communists started their parade over a route approved on Monday by Supt. of Police Peter P. Walsh down Galveston avenue to the Manchester Bridge, Duquesne way to the Sixth Street Bridge and over Federal street to the park.

At Sixth and Duquesne a group of about 25 demarcated as dock gates slipped out of line hoping to reach the Courthouse and the offices of the County Commissioners.

The deputy of the crowd which had gathered to watch the fizzled procession halted them briefly long enough for police to [illegible] them and turn them back into [illegible] line.

Nostalgia

This I want back—the newness of the day
When I would rise to know that in a space
My lithe and eager footsteps down your way
Would take me to the peace of your embrace;
And this I want—my presence in your room,
My roses at the table by your side,
Another chance from somewhere to resume
A romance that has never really died.

All this I crave—and yet, tonight, I know
That I am merely whistling in the dark;
For once I stood aside and watched love go,
And labeled our affair a trifling lark.
Well, fools are blind when Paradise is near—
And growing up is painful work, I fear!

And They Blast Furnaces!

Seen in the classified ad columns of a Rhode Island rag:

"Young Man seeking a hobby will welcome suggestions from the General Public—P. O. Box 8, Providence, R. I."

If all the readers from coast to coast find time to tell him, he'll never, never, never find time to mention a hobby. Here's one way of getting even with a guy, eh, Ina?

Haw!

Bert Nevins actually heard two fellows swap this repartee:

Sam: "Gee, Joe! Do you know that you're gettin' bald? Looka that spot on your forehead!"

Joe: "Oh, that's nothin'! There's a big shakeup at our company and that's where the ax just missed me!"

Heheheh

Ted Weems, the Chicago orchestra leader, was on his way to work. Under one arm he carried a megaphone, under the other a saxophone.

Suddenly a grapefruit struck him squarely in the neck. There was a squishy thud.

Weems turned around, caught sight of his assailant, and shouted:

"Hey, there! Who do you think I am?"

It's a New Girl

(And She Didn't Know)

"I saw your slam about hotel phone operators. The phrase which titles this letter is standard and must be used by the Supervisor or else. You see, if the truth is told the guest would cuss and fret. But this was the guest forgets and his dreams are not broken up by a lot of leering girls ringing bells accidentally on purpose. While you pat us on the back you also kick us in the step-ins—and they are threadbare enough. The girl who wakes you up is not the one who takes your call. But she's the one whose face sure gets red. Her average wage is $75 a month, and usually she is the only one in the hotel having an idea of English. She must aspirin the headaches caused by movie companies. She gives lessons in English to chambermaids, porters, waiters and managers. She takes the blame for mechanical defects in the dial system (which the phone company will deny, they always do!). She knows all the foreign cuss words from taking abuse from continental managers. If she stays home one day sick, she is fired. Verify this by asking the Chief Operator. They polish greaseballs and make them managers, when any painter will tell you that grease will come through regardless of the veneer used. This week is busy in N. Y. Think any phone gal will get a day off? Ha! Jobs are scarce, so we don't get sore. I wonder if you'll give us the break and print it?—Sign It Anonymous."

Okay, Chicago!

Theodore Sullivan of the Lake Shore Athletic Club, Chicago, tells the one about the sports writer, who, between halves went to the quarters of the winning team. He found the quarterback dejected and crying.

"Why, what's the matter?" said the sports writer. "You're the one who made the only gains, long runs and touchdowns for your team, and you should be the happiest man in the world!"

"I know, I know," replied the quarterback between sobs, "but sometimes I only wish I could read and write."

The Morning Mail

"Dear Mr. Winchell," writes Russ Niksur, of 234 Hugenot street, New Rochelle, N. Y., "may I offer a simile? To wit: 'As embarrassed as a cheating husband caught by one of his wife's relatives.'

"P. S.: And I know your name is Winchell—because my frau's family lived next door to your family on 116th street long before anybody cared what your name was."

Visiting Greeks Bear Their Gifts Away From U. S.

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

Three foreign diplomats have visited Washington. Each one grabbed himself a big slice of cake.

Washington is very generous to everybody.

Unless you happen to live here.

We don't know just what was given away. But we missed it.

Our government has gone in for open covenants secretly arrived at. In international charity never let your right hand man know whom your left hand man is shortchanging.

We suspect that Ramsay MacDonald got most of our Navy. Laval took a big billion miniature. Grandi probably grabbed what was left.

That old warning to beware of Greeks bearing gifts is old-fashioned.

Now we have to beware of Greeks bearing away gifts.

What we need in Washington is a yes-man who can say no.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

I went below decks to drill my Chinese army, but I couldn't get 'em away from a Fan Tan game. We call 'em heathen, eh? You play with 'em and see how heathen they are. They will have these missionaries' red underwear before they get to Shanghai. Clara, this would have been no game for you. And, speaking of movies, I see by the paper you can pretty near tell who is the highest-priced female screen star of each year by seeing who the Marquee de Cordray is married to. Say, cable me who won the Texas election, and tell me which one of my friends will be speaker—Tillson or Garner. Yours, WILL.

ALL IN A DAY

Unsung New Yorkers

THOSE OF YOU who relish odd stories will probably go for this one in a big way. It's one of those yarns that seems incredible at first glance. Yet, the more you read it, the more logical it becomes. And if you think it's the only case of its kind, you have another think coming.

Although bigamy is a decided crime on the records there are plenty of folks who do not consider it such. Among the poorer and unpublicized people, for example, where the chance of exposure and notoriety is very slim, many men and women find it an easy way out of a situation that may look very difficult on the surface.

The question has more to do with circumstance than morality. Why go into the expense of lawyers and divorces? As long as both parties agree that it's best to go their individual paths why shouldn't husband and wife just shake hands and call it quits? That at any rate, is their reasoning. And even though it's wrong, there it is.

Now let's consider one specific case. Here is a man—Gus by name, who lives in the city of New York at the present time. Gus not only has one skeleton in his closet, his house is filled with them. Listen.

When he was 19 years of age Gus married the girl of his choice. A printer by trade, he was earning a fairly comfortable salary when he was 21. At 29 he had a nice little home, a wife who nagged him whenever he was recovering from a drunk and two children who provided him with enjoyment on rare occasions. In other words, he was living exactly as so many other families with whom he and his wife were acquainted.

For no reason that might seem definite at the moment Gus began to travel about with another woman. It started harmlessly enough, but that was only the start. Before Gus realized quite what had happened he found himself very much in love with this new lad. And he began to absent himself from his home for days at a time.

It wasn't long before his wife began to hear things. She questioned Gus and Gus failed to deny the rumors. As a matter of fact, he was quite calm about the entire thing.

If you heard it was his brilliant remark, you've heard it. I'm not saying no, and I'm not saying yes. After all, you and I have been married for 10 years and you can't blame a guy for wanting a little change after a sentence like that.

His wife couldn't quite understand.

But Gus," she remonstrated, you can't do a thing like this. It ain't got no sense. What are the neighbors goin' to say? What's gonna happen to the kids? You can't do it."

Gus remained as calm as the old Bradford bottled whisky.

Do I say anything about leaving you or the kids?" he asked. You're always jumping ahead like that. I ain't got the slightest intention of giving my family the air. No sir. All I say is that a guy is entitled to a little fun after 10 years with the same dame.

If I want to make it that's my affair. Just you butt out of this and leave me alone.

There's a philosophy for you.

In due time the wife learned the name of the other woman. She swallowed her pride and while Gus was at work one afternoon she went to see her. She didn't carry a gun and there was no vitriol in her purse. All Mrs. Gus wanted was some kind of an understanding.

She found the intruder to be younger and fairly attractive. She didn't cry as she spoke. I'm not positive there was even despair in her voice. It was all very matter-of-fact.

I know that Gus loves you," she murmured. He's as much as told me so. If he wants to be with you I don't see how I can stop him. But what's to become of me and the kids?

Oh I know what you're going to say. You're goin' to tell me what he said that he wasn't goin' to walk out on me and the kids. But how do I know that he'll keep his word? How do I know he won't get so stuck on you and run away altogether?

The other woman was neither cold nor hard. She discussed the situation very frankly. And believe it or not Mrs. Gus found herself liking the other woman a great deal before many minutes had passed.

You see," asserted Mr. Gus, new love is one of them things that they don't write about in books. I'm nuts about Gus, as you say, he's nuts about me. We've talked about you and neither of us wants to see you or the kids get hurt.

I'm not jealous of you. Honest I'm not. I figure that you're his wife and after what you've been through you got first claim on him. What we gotta do is to make some kind of an arrangement where we'll all be happy.

And so amazingly enough the two women talked on and on. They finally agreed to tell Gus about their meeting and to let him help decide the problem. And when Mrs. Gus left for her own home she felt rather happy. She told herself that this other woman was one of the nicest women she had ever met.

As you probably understand by this time the three of them came to a very satisfactory arrangement. Mrs. Gus was to take the two children to Connecticut and settle in a small town. Her husband was to send her an allowance every week and he was to visit her at least once in every two weeks. Meanwhile in New York the other woman was to become the new Mrs. Gus.

There was no talk to lawyers, no thought of actual divorce. If either of them thought of that way out the idea was never mentioned. It was just one of those peaceful settlements that reach the papers only on certain occasions—and then only by accident.

For five years everything was strictly hotsy-totsy. So excellent was the routine, in fact, that when the new Mrs. Gus gave birth to a child the first Mrs. Gus came right down from Connecticut to be of assistance. I know it's strange, but there's not a trace of jealousy between the two women. They're the very best of friends.

If you want to see the depression and its attendant miseries done to the life, just take a look at Gus' home. Death did them part.

I'm not going to report however, that Gus finally let Gus right be seen. He is making as much salary as he always did, for he's an expert printer and extremely trustworthy.

What's the trouble then?

Well it's extremely simple. Gus earns sufficient money for his wife in Connecticut and his illegal wife in New York. But what neither of the women knows is that up in White Plains there is another lady who has been claiming much of Gus' attention.

He has been seeing her in a quiet way for two years. And she now insists that he either pay her off—or marry her.

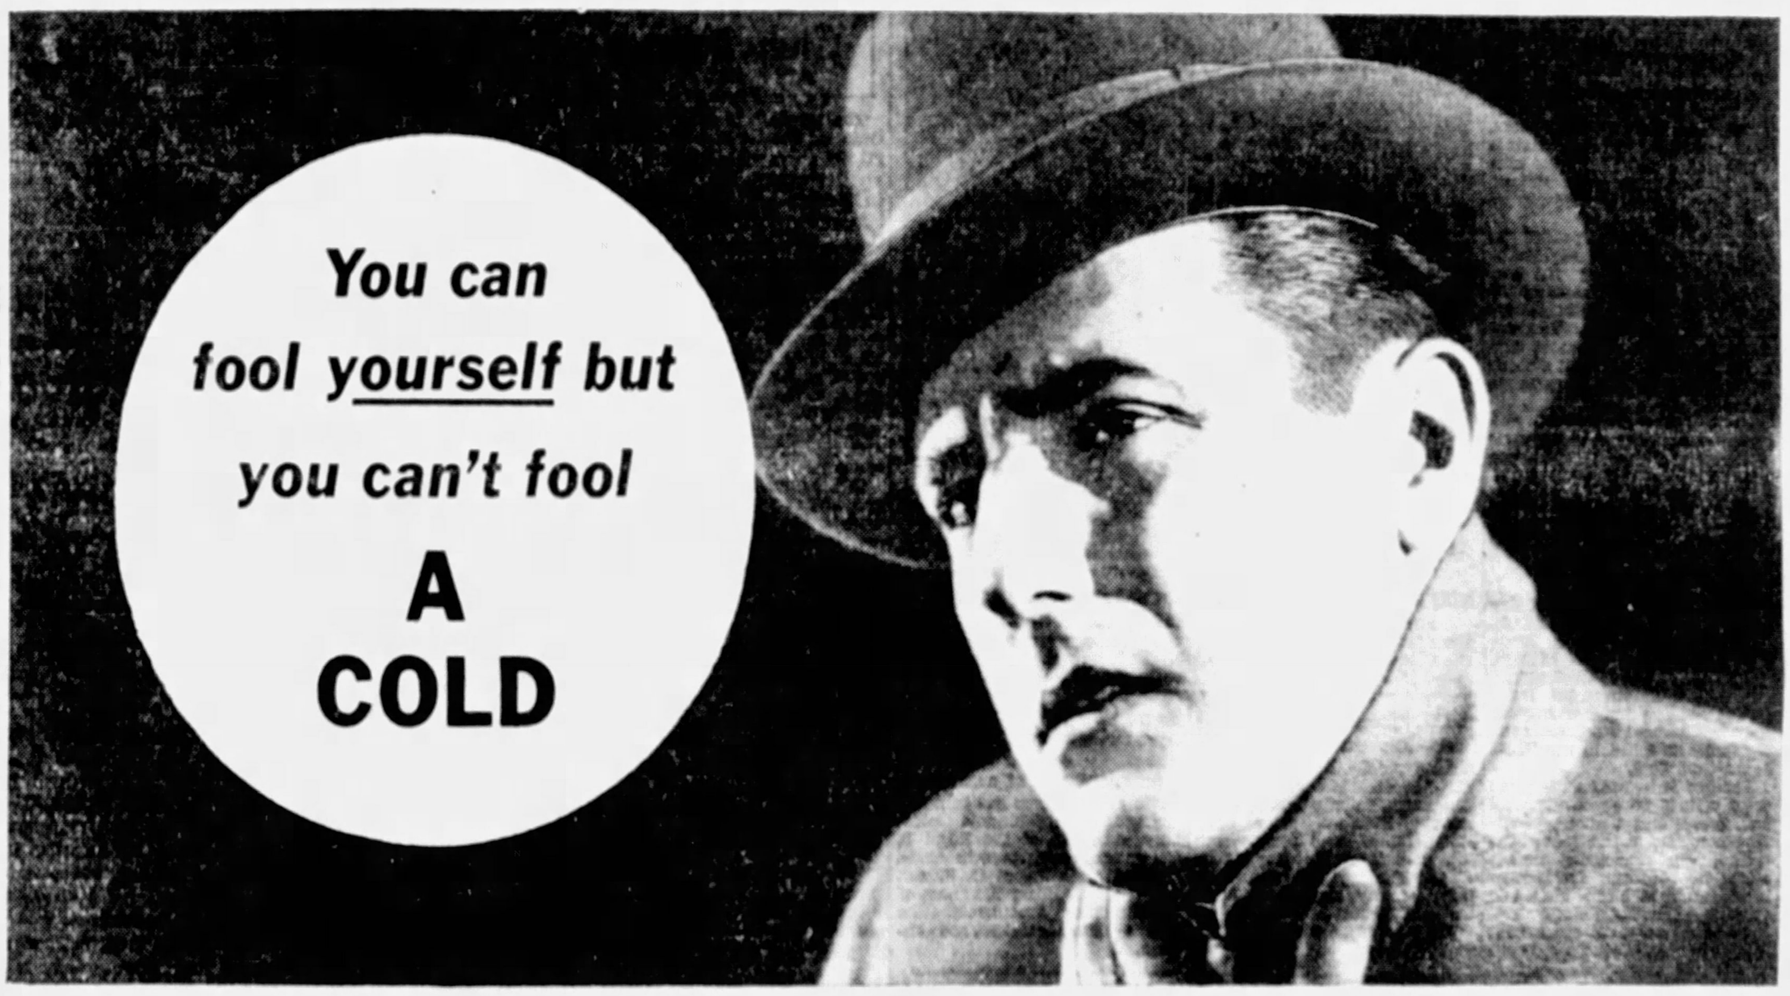
SORE THROAT
For quick relief depend upon Tonsiline. Successful for over 35 years. Use, two and $1.00
TONSILINE
"The National Sore Throat Remedy"



You've gargled for days but your cold hasn't gone

3 out of 4 gargle uselessly while sore throats get worse and colds hang on

Don't waste dollars on antiseptics that can't kill germs unless used full strength. Pepsodent Antiseptic kills germs in 10 seconds, even when diluted with two parts of water. It goes 3 times as far as other antiseptics. Thus $1 worth does the work of $3 spent for ordinary kinds.

GARGLING in the morning. Gargling at night. Millions of gargliers feeling themselves with mouth antiseptics that can't kill germs when mixed with water. But you can't fool colds . . . not bad breath . . . not germs.

If you do add water to your antiseptic—like 3 out of 4 do—get one that kills germs even when diluted. Otherwise don't expect relief from stubborn colds and husky throats.

A new discovery, safe yet powerful

Modern research laboratories have thrown away the old ideas on killing germs.

Now there's a revolutionary antiseptic on the market—Pepsodent Antiseptic. Its formula is a radical advance. It climaxes the best antiseptic study of 50 years. A germ-killing agent is employed unlike those now in use. It makes Pepsodent Antiseptic 3 to 11 times more powerful in killing germs than other leading mouth antiseptics, depending on which one you use.

Kills germs in 10 seconds diluted with 2 parts of water

That is the startling news in this new discovery. Think! You can mix Pepsodent Antiseptic with 1 or even 2 parts of water, to suit your taste, and it still kills germs in less than 10 seconds. That's where most other leading mouth antiseptics fail. Yet in spite of all that power, Pepsodent Antiseptic is utterly safe when used full strength. What a weapon this new antiseptic is in your fight against colds!

New security against bad breath (Halitosis)

And please remember when you use Pepsodent Antiseptic for colds you are doing double duty by also fighting bad breath. For Pepsodent Antiseptic checks bad breath 1 to 2 hours longer! That's Pepsodent Antiseptic's record in fighting this widespread social offense due to unhygienic mouth conditions. Immediately after use—95% of germs on mouth surfaces are destroyed. Two hours later the number of germs is still reduced by 80%. That is far longer acting than other leading mouth antiseptics.

$3 worth of results for $1—regardless of size

To kill germs—most mouth antiseptics must be used full strength. So to mix such antiseptics with water is a waste of money. Contrariwise, Pepsodent Antiseptic can be mixed with twice it own volume of water. Thus Pepsodent Antiseptic goes 3 times as far—saves you $2 for every $1 you spend. Pepsodent Antiseptic comes in 3 sizes. 4 ounces for 25 cents—7 ounces for 50 cents—16 ounces for $1. The larger the size, the more for your money.

Combating colds and checking bad breath are only two uses for this remarkable antiseptic. There are scores of other uses. Some are listed on this page. Learn to rely on Pepsodent Antiseptic whenever a safe, effective germ-killing agent is required. Keep it in the home. Take it with you when you travel.

Again we say: Quit being good to germs. They've laughed at you long enough. Play safe. Buy an antiseptic that really kills germs when diluted. Remember: You can fool yourself but you can't fool a cold.

BAD BREATH (Halitosis)

Pepsodent Antiseptic does double duty when combating colds and throat irritations. For it not only kills colds but also bad breath. Remember: 1. A mouth germ is more than 5 times as large as a cold germ. 2. Pepsodent Antiseptic is 3 to 11 times more powerful in killing germs than other leading mouth antiseptics—and it kills germs when diluted.

DR. MILLER ADDRESSES JEWISH COUNCIL

Speaker Tells What Life Is For

The thing life is for is to spend it trying to find out what it is for and that discovery is India's religious problem, the Council of Jewish Women was told yesterday by Dr. Herbert A. Miller, the man who was dismissed from the faculty of the University of Ohio because of his radical views. Whether India is free is not important, but whether India represents the power of spirit over force and that she has made an impression on the peoples of the West is important, the speaker declared.

Dr. Miller was talking on "The New World Era," which he said is an era of cosmopolitanism, an era of wakefulness, in which a new nationality is needed and the only way in which the people have consciously seen a change coming about.

He termed Lenin, Sun Yat Sen and Gandhi the three great men of their time, and showed how each had adapted ideas acquired in another country to harmonize with the traditions and needs of his own people. Western civilization, he said, has come to be greatly overestimated and is almost wholly without a spiritual philosophy, a mechanistic philosophy dominating it. Just as America's mechanistic ideas have been heard all over the world so Russia's ideas are being heard now, and will have a tremendous effect spiritually, economically and politically, for other nations will watch the Russian experiment to see what makes it succeed, he stated.

Altogether it was a very profound scholarly discussion which would have been more keenly enjoyed by at least one person in the audience had not four women persisted in keeping up a running fire of whispered conversation throughout the entire afternoon.

Martha Eaton Buckman was Hilda Ledlie at the piano, Sarah Beattie's and Mrs. Leo Hall the president introduced an "acquaintance minute," in which each person was given an opportunity to speak to those sitting near her.

Countess Margit Bethlen will be guest of honor at a luncheon and dinner on Friday when she comes to Pittsburgh to lecture before the Friday Morning Club of the Allegheny County League of Women Voters. The organization will give a luncheon in the Twentieth Century Club in her honor after her lecture and that evening Mrs. B. Templeton Smith will be hostess at dinner in her home honoring the distinguished woman who is to be her house guest.

The countess who is the wife of Count Stephen Bethlen, former premier of Hungary, is to speak at 10:30 in Carnegie Music Hall on "History in the Making and Personalities Who Make It." Her lecture will open the Friday Morning Club series for the season.

SARTORIAL SMARTNESS DEPENDS UPON ORIGINALITY IN SLEEVES

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun Telegraph

PARIS, Nov. 25.—In our arms rests much of the burden of the season's sartorial smartness, since it is the sleeves that must be different if the frock is to be a success. We are all so sleeve-conscious that it must be nerve-wracking for the designer to sit and think up new and better sleeves for each succeeding model. We even permitted the leg-o'-mutton sleeve and it still persists, though in modified design of course.

JUST NOW afternoon frocks are rejoicing in the bishop sleeve, that wide full sleeve beloved by the younger women. The full part of that type of sleeve is generally in a color contrasting with the body of the frock, or if the dress is black, white lawn or georgette is usually favored. Then for dinner wear, we have glittery, gleaming sleeves made entirely of sequins or else of net embroidered with strass or colored stones. When the sleeve is tight and perfectly plain, it is generally cut with an almost geometric precision, so that it sits easily. But never, never, is a sleeve entirely devoid of novelty or interest. Not even in the least expensive frock, which after all is only a duplicate of its more costly sister.

* * *

TODAY'S SKETCHES show the newest in sleeves. The afternoon frock is by Premet and it is of fine black woolen with astrakan edging the pastron panel on the bodice, the skirt-tiers, likewise the knotted scarf that terminates the bertha in back. The turn-over collar and lower part of the bishop sleeves are of fine hand-embroidered lingerie. A strass buckle fastens the belt in front. All the back the double tiers on the skirt are slashed up to the top with each vertical edge bordered with fur.

ONE OF LANVIN'S most successful models is the hostess gown here sketched. It is in black georgette and has dolman sleeves made entirely of glittering silver sequins. A small strip of the sequin embroidery is set in at the front of the narrow belt. Mme. Lanvin also shows the same model in white georgette with the sleeves done in black sequins, a much more striking combination.

JINGLE LINE BRINGS PRICE OF TURKEY

Iquippa Man Named Winner in Group No. 8; 5 Others Get Awards

Herbert Falk, 1113 Irwin street, Aliquippa gets $5, the price of a mighty big, fine turkey for Thanksgiving just for writing what the judges selected as the best last line for "Christmas Jingle" No. 8. This is how the jingle reads as Falk completed it:

A copper who walked a beat
Had been cited for valor [illegible]
But he'd none so much regard
In a poor neighborhood
What's a quip between friend and friend?

EXCITEMENT AROUSED

There was considerable excitement at the fashionable King Edward Apartments Monday night and everyone was asking everyone else: Did you win in the Christmas Jingle contest?

It seems that in the list of $1 prize winners Monday, one of the names was inadvertently omitted. A King Edward Apartment address was given and the name of the winner was missing. The name was that of Mr. D. Lee Lorence, a resident of the apartments. Yes, it was true. He did not have to be a contest winner to know what satisfaction gives a reader to simply see his work in print, no matter what the value of the award.

Try your hand on No. 15 appearing on this page today. If you submit what the judges think is the best of all last lines sent in, you get a check for $5. The five next best last lines will each be awarded $1.

READERS INVITED

All readers of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, with the exception of employes, are invited to enter the Christmas Jingle contest. You can send in as many last lines as you like. Equal awards will be paid to readers whose answers are tied in the judging. You do not have to buy a Sun-Telegraph to enter this contest. You may examine the files of this newspaper at the public library or at any one of the offices of the Sun-Telegraph, where you may make a tracing of the "Christmas Jingle" blank if you wish.

Each Sun-Telegraph Christmas Jingle will be consecutively numbered.

HITS OPTIMISM IN DEPRESSION

The present economic situation is due to the asinine policies of business and government, according to Samuel O. Dunn, railroad expert, author and publisher, who stopped in Pittsburgh yesterday while en route home to New York, He said:

"Railroad earnings will be less this year than they have been in 20 years. The only solution is to increase the traffic and this cannot be done until business conditions improve. Instead of being governed by facts business has been led by blind optimism. That is the cause of the present depression."

STATES from one ocean to the other."

OTHER STATES may learn from California that in addition to being useful, good roads actually pay. The population of this state only one-quarter of the population in a 25-mile radius around New York City, was enriched during the month of October by $3,241,000 from gasoline taxes alone.

The public schools of this state are a greater glory than its good roads, greater even than its football, tennis, swimming and other champions.

THE NEWS comes here by wire, telephone and newspaper. No escaping it if that is your field, but it seems as uninteresting as an explanation of the Einstein theory, by Einstein himself, would seem to one of the small horned toads outside the window.

Einstein is coming here again this winter, by the way, by boat through the Panama Canal. Wise Einstein. He will live longer.

Mayor Walker, of New York, has just arrived to help release from prison, if he can, Mooney, sentenced for a dynamiting crime and believed innocent by many.

THE MOST important news deals with vitamin D. That news will be important while time lasts. One of those deep Germans, Prof. Adolf Windaus of Berlin, has isolated the vitamin, a thing never done before, and actually has a fragment of it in pure crystal form. Taken in excess it is a poison.

In proper doses it is necessary to life and normal growth. Poor, rickety children with twisted legs and spines lack vitamin D. Other vitamins control various functions of life.

DEPRIVE A RAT, for instance, of one vitamin, and it will never have children. The future may solve important population problems, humanely, with the help of vitamin deprivation.

For a million years, inferior populations have been killed off in wars, massacres, famines and plagues. Some proud Nordics conclude, to their regret, that the process should continue as long as necessary.

But now no more massacreing. Simply say to the inferior undesired race:

"No more of such a vitamin for you people; hereafter enjoy yourselves while you may, for you soon will be done. Don't repine. Probably your souls will come back in improved Nordic bodies."

You admire nature's marvels more than ever, when you read the solemn German savant's statement that three billionths of a gram of vitamin D will cure a child of rickets.

That is more wonderful than California's giant redwood trees. Nevertheless, you should come and see those trees that were old trees when Jezebel was torn by the dogs.

Are Men Who Accept Money From Girls Worthless?

Few of Older Women Are Fooled by Men's Flattery for Gain, Says Fay King

By FAY KING.

Dear Daddy" and "my boy" the faded woman wrote to her youthful paramour lately tried for killing her husband.

Baby" and "sweetheart" he wrote to her, but signed himself "Sonny," reminding her that he needed more money.

And that sums up most of these sad affairs where an older woman retains a hold on a young man with maternal affection and gifts, but at the same time imagines herself young and desirable.

Shrewdly he flatters her imaginings just enough while demanding financial help, but absolves himself in his own estimation by signing off as a son.

Men are so obvious in their preference for youth and beauty, especially where a paramour is concerned, that few older women are fooled by flattery for gain.

Madge and Lillian Discuss Sender of Mysterious Note

Katherine's command to stop all day must have done late my subconscious desires for I was almost asleep when I awoke from a sleep so profound that for the first second I had no recollection of all. Remembering, but she had heard the girls. I put my hand under my pillow and felt the bit of bone which Katherine had placed there. I felt as she had directed. I felt gratefully foolish as I did so. My future was completely safe and I knew that I was perfectly able to get up and resume the usual routine of life.

I said as much to my little nurse when, a few seconds later she came into the room. Lillian following closely behind her. Katherine looked at me keenly and her practiced fingers brushed my forehead and then rested for a little upon my pulse. When she took her hand away, she looked quizzically at me.

Lady, take my wrist watch, also his thermometer," she said with a little bow. "From what Lillian has told me of your experiences today you ought to be running a temperature. But you're looking as fit as ever. What about it, Lillian? Shall I let her up?"

Lillian looked me over judicially.

Yes if you'll let me ride herd on her," she said.

All right!" Katherine moved toward the door. "That suits me. I have quite a mess of fish to fry before night falls."

Lillian's head went up. "Don't you do any more of those. I'll finish them."

Katherine wrinkled her nose at us as she closed the door. "You look after Madge. I'll attend to the flatirons."

The flatirons. I repeated slowly, looking at Lillian, then at her queerly embarrassed look, I laughed with friendly malice.

Behold the stern mother who told her daughter she must get back from the beach party in time to press her gowns before she packed them for tomorrow's journey!" I said. "You and Katherine have been putting those girls' wardrobes in order."

Guilty as charged, m'lud," she admitted shamefacedly. And such a mess you never saw as their closets. If they worked all night they wouldn't be ready." I knew as my eyebrows rose involuntarily. "It is all wrong, and they ought to be compelled to take care of their own things. But you can't understand. When Faith grows up she will do everything properly, being your daughter—unless, indeed, she happens to take after the Dicky-bird. But Marion is my daughter and Mary Dicky's niece. They don't inherit orderliness. So, thinking it over after they went, I decided I ought to be a bit more lenient."

You mean you decided to humor yourself," I retorted.

You would rather fuss over Marion's clothes than take the finest trip ever planned. But how did you manage? You don't—"

Know a gusset from a seam," she countered, smiling at my embarrassment. "I know it. But I'm a heaven-sent packer, also a presser, and Katherine has done whatever mending was needed. And you've called the turn. I did want to do it for her. Just how I want to help you dress. You look a bit shaky yet—"

Sorry to disappoint you," I said laughing, but I'm perfectly fit. But sit down. I want to talk to you when I've finished dressing."

She dropped into a low seat near the window and waited with hands idly resting in her lap. I never have seen a woman who can be so magnificently indolent as Lillian. When she is not in the whirlwind of action which her profession demands, she is as immovable as a statue for whatever moments of leisure are hers.

But when I had finished dressing and drawn a chair near hers there was nothing of listlessness in the knowing glance she gave me.

I don't need three guesses as to the subject of your proposed conversation," she said. "You've decided who is responsible for that letter addressed to Lee Chow."

I think you know it too," I answered quietly.

Elementary, Watson," she quoted, smiling. "There was only one person who knew of Lee Chow's acquaintance with you people."

Exactly. And—though I didn't see him, the man who terrified you a few days ago by saying that you must give up Marion's lock box to him or it would be 'velly bad for you.'"

And velly bad for him," I added thoughtfully. "You know I never saw a more terror-stricken face than was his when he went down the path after telling me that. That's the only thing which makes me wonder whether this letter really is from him. He looked exactly as if he were a man sentenced to death when he should go back to the men who had sent him on the errand."

Lillian looked at me oddly.

Suppose he didn't go back to the men," she said.

Household Hints

Living rooms were never intended to be photograph galleries. Only a few pictures of your most intimate friends should be artistically framed and placed carefully about the room; the fewer the better.

Should you have trouble removing the grease spot from the unpainted floor pour kerosene over the grease and scrub hard with a scrubbing brush. Give it a few days and both the grease and kerosene will have disappeared.

Did you ever scientifically plan your kitchen that you save steps and in this way can work more quickly and be less tired? Many kitchens cannot be arranged except in one way, but just as many large kitchens are proving bugbears to housewives merely because they are not arranged properly in order to do efficient work.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

If You Have Good Health Be Thankful

Dr. Copeland

In the traditions and practices of every people there are days of prayer and thanksgiving, of fasting or feasting, of rejoicing or lamentation. In America the great day of rejoicing, celebrated by all races and creeds, is Thanksgiving Day. The President, the Governors of states, the heads of provinces issue proclamations. They direct that the last Thursday in November shall be set aside as a day to turn from the ordinary affairs of life, to give thanks to Almighty God for the blessings He has given His children.

In the midst of economic depression and world tribulations, we must overlook the unpleasant things in life. We must give thanks for many blessings that are ours in spite of material adversity.

It is not all of life to have stocks and bonds, high wages and soft raiment. To be happy, it is not necessary to dwell in palaces, or to be driven by liveried chauffeurs. Private cars, yachts and airplanes may not be the vehicles of our travels. Yet we may have a thousand things for which to thank God.

In the last analysis good health is chief of human blessings. Without it, wealth and position mean little. With it, all things are possible.

If you know how to live, you can have sparkling eyes today. I say this because knowledge of how to live is really more than half the battle.

You might be ignorant of the names of the capitals of the world and its great rivers. You might not be able to recognize by name a single one of the beautiful flowers and glorious trees. You might not know how many valves there are in the heart, or the number of bones in the body. Yet if you know what to eat and how to live, you are blessed beyond words. This is a day of thanksgiving for you if you have your health and your dear ones are well.

After a week of rain a small boy asked his father: "Will this rain ever stop?"

"Every rain I ever knew except one did stop," the father replied.

"What rain was that?"

"This one."

Likewise, this period of depression will end. It will be followed by better times, perhaps, than we ever had in the past. They will surely be better, if we apply the lessons of adversity.

Poverty may make it necessary to eat the simplest foods. That is no curse! To eat simple food when you are rich will make your muscles strong. It will take the fat off your stomach. It will send your blood in a cleansing stream through every cell of your brain. You may not be able to afford the theater and late supper afterward. That fact will send you to bed earlier and give your body the lasting benefits of abundant rest.

No matter what misfortune has overtaken you during the past, you have left a million things for which to thank God. Sacrifices such as I have mentioned will actually add to your health and vigor. A return of prosperity will find you ready to enjoy it. Let us give thanks!

Children and Big Words

By CONSTANCE CAMERON

Bobby was reading a book. "What is 'co-operation'?" he inquired of his father. The father eyed his 10-year-old son and grunted. "It's what you get precious little of around this house!"

This father passed up a big chance to help the child. He not only missed this chance, but in his facetious reply he shipped off further desire to ask questions, for no child likes to be made sport of or to have his earnest questions flippantly received by the people he holds highest and considers most wise.

Later, when he was in bed, the mother went to him and said: "Son, you asked dad what co-operation meant. Do you remember the other day when I talked to you about how hard I was trying to keep the bathroom neat and attractive, and you promised to wash your hands thoroughly before using the towel and to wipe out the bowl with the cleaning cloth when you'd finished washing?" Yes, Bobby remembered. "And I have, too," he said. "I know you have," said the mother gently, "and in doing that you have been co-operating with me. That's what co-operation is—the helping of another."

Oh," said Bobby, thinking earnestly.

He had added a new and interesting word to his vocabulary, and he had the satisfaction of knowing that at least one parent had taken his question seriously enough to give him an intelligent answer.

Children adore new words, usually the bigger the better. And it doesn't take long before they begin to use them properly if parents will explain patiently and to the best of their ability the meaning of these words. Even very young children like the sound of longer words than are usually used in talking with them. And it is amazing how quickly they will make them their own. Don't talk down to children, nor on the other hand try to cram a large vocabulary down their throats. Use your ordinary words in talking with them, explain the new and longer ones, and at least be intelligently serious in answering their questions about words when they evince enough interest to inquire.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Dinner Invitation

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. When invited to dinner and you are admitted by a butler, should you remove your wraps in the hall before going in to greet your hostess, or should you greet your hostess first?

2. When invited to dinner at an apartment hotel, do you take the elevator to the apartment, or do you ask to be announced at the desk?

3. When your friends send a motor for you should you tip the chauffeur? Is $1 a sufficient tip for a lady to give?

4. When being introduced to either a lady or a gentleman, I like to rise. Is it considered bad form to do so?

CONSTANT READER.

1. Remove your wraps before going in to greet your hostess. The butler will indicate where your wraps are to be left.

2. This is one of the few cases when it is usually not necessary for us to announce ourselves in an apartment hotel. As you enter, tell the doorman that you are expected.

On all other occasions, occasions when we are not expected, we should announce ourselves. This is one of the social amenities that are necessary in this modern life of ours.

3. While it is not absolutely necessary to give this fee, usually we wish to do it. Or, if this happens often with the same friend, we can give an occasional fee. A dollar is about the correct amount.

4. You may rise, if you wish, when you are introduced to another woman, but usually a woman does not rise when a man is presented to her.

"Nice" to Send a Gift

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have a girl friend who has a young man friend, who is away at present. They are not engaged. He sent her a dollar bill to buy flowers for herself, and in return she bought cigars for him and sent them to him. I claim she did wrong in sending the man a present, but she says it is so nice to send a gift.

Kindly let us know who is right. M. Q.

I quite agree with her that it's "so nice to send a gift," but this isn't the question involved in the situation. She may certainly send the young man a gift of some of his favorite cigars, but she should not buy this gift with the money that he has sent for quite a different use. Although, naturally, this is not the customary way to send flowers to a Ladye Faire, still it is most evident that the gallant young man had a charming wish in his mind, and the young lady should have respected this and should have done as he asked her to do. I should think that the young man would have been very much embarrassed and very much disappointed to have her change his plan like this. I hope that she doesn't do this again.

OFFICIAL SYSTEM as Adopted by Leading Authorities

By E. V. SHEPARD

Late Opening Bids, Continued

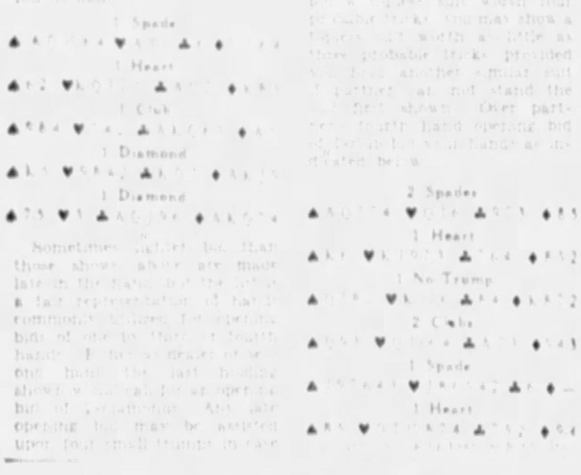
The most practical requirements for an opening bid—1 or no-trump—by a third hand or fourth hand are:

1. Either willingness to bid game or probable ability to prevent an adverse game from a love score.

2. More than five probable tricks.

3. Five working units for partner or ability to ruff.

The above requirements are merely another way of stating what appeared yesterday. But each of the hands shown below as indicated whether the opener's third hand or fourth hand.



Sometimes (after he) that those shown above are made late in the game by the opener a fair representation of hand, communicate (during the bidding of other hands) the fact to partner, and thereby enable him to make a correct decision as to opening bid or advancing partner's bid. Hands illustrated below:

A novel method of mending a hole or tear in cotton that proves very successful is to put a piece of paper under the hole and stitch on the machine right over hole in filling.

Ingrown Nail Turns Right Out!

A few drops of Outgro on the cuticle at the corner of the nail dissolves inflamed cuticle fast and so toughens the tender corner skin underneath that the nail cannot penetrate to the flesh and the nail turns naturally outward almost over night.

"Outgro" is a harmless antiseptic manufactured for this purpose. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.

The harried, half-hearted hairdos which leave a crowd of small curls on the back of the head to be combed out at the mirror are a detriment to the growth. If you retain the length, be careful to keep it on the wall, forming a bathing cap through which no sebaceous things endeavor to break their way causing overstimulation.

There are various names for flattering treatments that decorate the forehead. The old-fashioned name was bows, curlers and before that they were called rats—which is anything but an elegant expression. Now they are tatty effects or pelmet curls. You make them differently but the principle is the same. Separate the scalp hair from the hair on the head and roll it over the finger. Pin with invisible hairpins. Be careful not to pull the hair too much or you will have a headache.

You may respond to partner's late opening bid with any hand that probably capable of fulfilling it. Bid one trick higher than required to show a powerful but worth game expectancy, that you have once passed because you lacked opening trick strength. Without opener's strength you may pass a game but worth four probable tricks you may show a three-card support with a little as three probable tricks provided another a must still partner at not stand the first shown. Over partner's fourth hand opening bid of [illegible] as in the diagram below.

Are you one of the thousands who can't enjoy their meals when a high tension nervous system keeps your stomach upset? Here is wonderful relief for you. Before meal time, drop one of Dr. Miles' Effervescent NERVINE Tablets into a glass of water. Watch it bubble up like sparkling spring water—then drink it. Do this—and enjoy your food without the distress of nervous indigestion. There is nothing like Effervescent NERVINE Tablets. They do double duty. Then the bicarbonate of soda and citric acid contained in each tablet sweetens the stomach and neutralizes the excess acid so your food digests easily. Thousands of folks use this delightful, harmless way to relieve nervous indigestion.

Why don't you try it? Your druggist will sell you a package with the guarantee that if you are not pleased with results—your money will be refunded. Also sold in liquid form.

Question a Day:

A beautiful poem on "Thanksgiving" was read over the radio Sunday night. I think the author's name was Helen Tupper. Will you please print it? Louise K., Noblestown, Pa.

Answer. We regret that we will not permit us to print the entire poem by Ellen Isabella Tupper, but arrogos of the season we give the first verse:

"THANKSGIVING

If you send us your complete address we will be glad to forward the other stanzas.

Studio Lights:

A guard mounts every morning at Radio City that will be every bit as impressive as if you were at Buckingham Palace is promised by S. L. Rothafel, and rumors that on hand to join from top of European radio be found much to admire, but nothing to emulate.

Gandhi, never having heard of Charlie Chaplin, has nothing on Calvin Coolidge, who has never heard of Seth Parker . . . and a New Englander to boot!

Sunday we ran a story with the headline: "Russia Plans Radio City" . . . and Jim Hughes adds: "All broadcasts will come to you over the Red network" . . .

The 1931 All-America football team is to be announced over NBC—KDKA Sunday night at 10:15 at a meeting of the coaches who select the players—Jesse Harper, Notre Dame; Glenn (Pop) Warner, Stanford; W. A. Alexander, Georgia Tech, and Tad Jones, Yale.

Carveth Wells' aptitude for conjuring color pictures over the air finds lots of pig-ment in his latest statement that all the hogs in Texas, if rolled into one, could root out the Panama Canal with ease and dispatch . . .

Contest gags on the radio have turned the air lanes into a Mardi Gras . . . members of the Federal Radio Commission are disgruntled spectators and may instruct their policemen to act.

Bud Cooper was the essence of industry yesterday when we surprised him pounding out a continuity on the typewriter while a bootblack polished his shoes for a 4 o'clock appointment . . .

Lewis H. Abel deserves a fanfare for coaxing theatrical stars to the KQV microphone with all the aroma and atmosphere of a backstage setting.

Salt and Peanuts have an Amos 'n' Andy complex . . . draw the curtains and put a sheet of music over the studio door window when they broadcast . . .

For an outstanding bit of vocal artistry, tune WWSW some Tuesday or Thursday evening at 6:30 for "The Singing Vagabond," whose identity is being kept secret . . . the songs you like to hear are woven into a picturesque pattern.

Dr. Samuel H. Goldenson is to conduct a Jewish service for the Columbia network Sunday afternoon at 2:30, the program to originate in the studios of WJAS.

T. T. Overbrook, C. A. (Tony) Wakeman, now Uncle Kay-Dee, was with WCAE in the days of Joe Villella, Joe Sartory and Jerry Wyman . . . the staff at WCAE has changed considerably since then . . . Villella and Wyman have left radio, but Sartory is program manager at WWSW.

Frank W. H. Mansfield avenue, Crafton—Cantor was enabled to renew his radio contract through January by the consent of his motion picture managers who have delayed work on new Cantor films until February.

WOR at Newark, for the twelfth consecutive month, is listed on the Honor Roll by the Department of Commerce for remaining within 50 cycles of its assigned wavelength . . . Pittsburgh stations receive this recognition frequently.

The Loudspeaker

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, Nov. 25—We are thankful for the old armchair—the old oaken armchair, the moth-covered armchair, the iron-bound armchair that you'll never sell.

Armchair, you have been faithful to us in your fashion. You have been a restful, if dilapidated, haven through many stormy voyages of baritones and sopranos, through many a cacophany of sound, through mountains upon mountains of words. Serving us so abundantly, how can we be other than thankful?

Yet there have been times when your coziness was too inviting, when your cushions were too deep to permit that rapid reach for the dials so essential to the discriminating listener. At such times we have even harbored dark, evil thoughts. We have even suspected that the craftsmen of Grand Rapids and Jamestown were actually in cahoots with the sponsors of radio programs. But this morning we are banishing such thoughts. They just don't make for the digestion of mince pie.

* * *

Radio has made you—as if you didn't know!—such an important factor in modern civilization. There must be millions of Americans who would sooner part with the family album, with even their last shirt than with you. To them you have brought surcease from care, forgetfulness of trouble.

It would be hard to find in all this world a more welcome refuge than you when the weather, say, is on a tear outside and mellow music is sending its cheering glow through the room.

* * *

It is music, of course, that provides the chief reason for your hold upon the people. It may be the music of Wagner and Beethoven, of Tschaikowsky and Rimsky-Korsakoff. It may be that of Stephen Foster, and the balladeers of Scotland and Ireland. It may be that of Herbert and Sullivan or the tinkly tunesmiths in Tin Pan Alley, those canny, watchful, clever traders in jazz. But whatever it is it invariably brightens the corners where you are, provided, of course—and it is such a big provision—it is interpreted by first class musicians.

As you wait there so friendly you are gradually taking on the aspect of a front seat—a particulary soft front seat—at the vaudeville theaters. For upon you pour diversity of talent, an enormous, endless variety of song and story.

Trips of Griggs, Crandall. • Pitt Faces Hard Job.
Neither to Be Manager. Famous Fight Recalled.
Panka Kayo Beaten Here. Savoldi's Biggest Shot.

BUC PILOT FIELD NARROWED TO FEW

OTIS CRANDALL, Pirate coach, is not the only Far Westerner connected with the Pittsburgh club who has been summoned East from the Pacific Coast to attend the series of baseball meetings in West Baden and Chicago during the next two weeks with President Barney Dreyfuss and Treasurer W. E. Benswanger. Art Griggs, manager of the Wichita Western League club, the Buccaneer farm, also will make the trip from his Los Angeles home at the request of President Dreyfuss to be present at the sessions.

Otis Crandall

However, the calling Eastward of Crandall and Griggs is not to be taken as meaning that either is going to be appointed manager of the Pirates next year. Both men have been mentioned in the numerous guesses made in connection with the local managerial vacancy, but it may be stated on the best of authority that the new Corsair skipper will not be either Crandall or Griggs. Neither is being considered for the place and their coming East has nothing to do with the appointment of Jewel Ens' successor.

IT IS THE intention of President Dreyfuss to keep Crandall on the same job that Otis held last season, that of coach and pitching tutor, and he feels that he needs Griggs for the dual duty of handling the business and the playing end of things at Wichita. The Pirate owner wants the advice of the two at the meetings on some matters not connected with the Piratoon leadership.

In the matter of selecting a new manager, President Dreyfuss reports having made such progress in weeding out the mass of 80 applications that he has narrowed the field down to a mere "five or six." Out of this number the new skipper will be chosen, probably in time to have him on deck when the big league meetings open in Chicago on December 8.

VETERAN BOXING FANS rise to take exception to published statements that the four-second knockout of George Panka by Tony Galento Monday night was the quickest kayo on record in Pittsburgh.

They recall an even shorter bout of more than 20 years ago at the old Northern Club in Old City Hall. Joe Kline was just rising from his chair when Frank Walton rushed across the ring and knocked him cold with one punch. The old-timers contend it was the shortest fight ever known anywhere.

TWO OF PITTSBURGH'S collegiate football teams will be fighting their respective Turkey Day battles on foreign fields tomorrow, with Carnegie Tech meeting New York U. at the Yankee Stadium in New York, while Duquesne tackles Howard College in Birmingham, Ala. The Skibos will be up against one of the strongest teams in the East and will be hard-pressed to escape another defeat. Last year they lost to the Violets, 20 to 7. The Dukes beat Howard here in 1930 after a hard fight, 14 to 9, and in view of their improved showing against North Dakota last week bid fair to repeat tomorrow. The Tartans and the Bluffites will return to Pittsburgh immediately after their Thanksgiving Day engagements to start preparations for their big charity game at the Stadium one week from Saturday.

FOLLOWERS OF PITT who refuse to become alarmed at the possibility that the Panther running attack tomorrow may strike a snag or a pair of snags in those two Nebraska tackles, thinking that if the Sutherland backs can't go through the 'Huskers they can go over the visitors via the Heller-to-Reider passing combination, are due to be fooled if the record of other Nebraska games this year means anything.

Warren Heller

For the bright particular feature of the Westerners' season has been their showing against forward passes. Not a single pass has been completed against Dana Bible's team this year for any sizeable or dangerous gain. Even Northwestern, with such a great passer as Pug Rentner, couldn't score on Nebraska by the aerial route.

NORTHWESTERN SCORED THREE times in the first seven minutes by rushing the ball before the 'Husker linemen could find their bearings, but it couldn't make a point through the air. Too. Bo McMillin's Kansas State eleven, one of the best passing teams in the West, had to resort to a field goal to score.

On top of that evidence comes a warning from Mike Getto, former Pitt star and now line coach at University of Kansas, that the 'Huskers' pass defense is the best he has seen in years.

FEW TEAMS IN the country have shown an all-around defense as strong as that of the Lincoln outfit. In six games since Nebraska suffered its only defeat of the year at the hands of Northwestern, only 10 points all told have been scored against the Huskers by Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri, Iowa, Kansas State and Iowa State combined. All of which means a battle at the Stadium tomorrow that will tax the Panthers to the limit of their resources.

THIRTY YEARS AGO tomorrow the fight world received the greatest surprise it has experienced since John L. Sullivan was toppled from his throne by Jim Corbett in 1892. In a Hartford skating rink the supposedly invincible Terry McGovern, featherweight champion, was knocked out by Young Corbett in the second round.

McGovern, the hardest-hitting little man of all time, had won the featherweight title from George Dixon and beaten every other topnotcher near his weight. He was a 5-to-1 favorite in the betting. But Corbett got his goat, floored him in the first round, and after a terrific exchange in the second put him away with a powerful right-hander to the jaw.

A STRANGE SEQUEL to that ancient fistic rivalry has since developed in such an unexpected quarter as Wall Street, where Joe McGovern, son of the old-time Terrible Terry, was discovered working as a clerk.

And who, of all people, was found working right at Joe's side but William Rothwell II, son of Young Corbett. It's a small world, sure enough. The two are good friends, have no interest in fighting, dislike publicity, and their sole ambition is to win success in business.

Joe Savoldi

JUMPING JOE SAVOLDI," who played a short engagement in professional football after being dropped by Notre Dame and then became a wrestler, gets his biggest shot in the mat game tonight when he meets Strangler Lewis in a finish match at Los Angeles. The so-called world championship, which used to be passed around at such intervals as would keep up interest and get the best results out of the betting, has now been divided up, it seems, and is claimed by several of the big grapplers. In the East it's Jim London, and out on the Coast it's Lewis, so that tonight's bout is supposed to be for the title. A year ago Savoldi didn't know anything about wrestling, yet now he's billed as a possible world champion after tonight, showing that all you need in the modern mat business is to have a good box office name and be able to grunt. Jumping Joe told an old South Bend friend not long ago that "Nobody can throw the great Savoldi. It's in the contract."

SKIBOS GIVEN WORKOUT ON EASTERN GRID

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—Carnegie Tech's varsity football squad, trainers, coaches and a number of supporters arrived here early this morning. The Tartans will face Chick Meehan's powerful New York University eleven tomorrow afternoon at the Yankee Stadium. It will be the first appearance of the Skibos in New York since they downed the Violets, 20 to 0, in an upset game two years ago. The advance sale of tickets indicated that the crown might run close to 60,000, as there is little other athletic competition here tomorrow.

The Skibos are scheduled to work out lightly this afternoon at the Stadium, where they will divide the time with their opponents.

WADDELL IN CHARGE

Assistant Coach Bob Waddell will be in charge of the Carnegie team until Judge Steffen, head coach, arrives tomorrow morning. Steffen is to let Carnegie authorities know on this trip whether he will reconsider his recent decision to quit active coaching. The Tartan bosses desire the Judge to remain in an advisory capacity, even if he does not care to devote so much time to actual field work.

Although Carnegie won its last game, while New York was tied by Fordham, the Scotch are distinct underdogs in tomorrow's tilt. The Violets will have the advantage of weight, experience and superior reserves, and a Tartan victory would rank among the season's biggest upsets.

SQUAD IN SHAPE

The Tartan squad is in fair physical condition, despite Sample's broken hand, O'Toole's recent illness and Heinzer's bad knee. Capt. Armentrout and Kavel apparently have recovered from the severe bumpings they received in recent games. Sample is listed as a starter at his usual left guard position, but Heinzer and O'Toole evidently are to be held in reserve. The teams are expected to line up as follows:

Carnegie Tech.		N. Y. U.
Stewart	L. E.	Hogan
Fletcher	L. T.	Tomkaitis (C.)
Semple	L. G.	Marino
Parsons	C.	Chalmers
Kane	R. G.	Piotrowicz

Kavel	R. H.	R. McNamara

DEATH CLAIMS YOUNG GRIDDER

SCRANTON, Pa., Nov. 25.—(AP.)—Arthur Zolkoski, 17, fullback of the Dickson City High School football team, died yesterday from injuries received in a contest with Dunmore High School's eleven last Saturday. The youth suffered a ruptured appendix early in the game, but managed to play throughout the contest.

END BREAKS BACK

YORK, Pa., Nov. 25.—(AP.)—Ray Cable, left end of the all-York professional football team who was injured in a game played at Lancaster last Sunday, with what first was believed to be a few broken ribs, was removed from the Lancaster Hospital, according to officials of the York club, with a broken back and taken to his home in Highspire, Pa., where he was coach of the Highspire High School football team.

LIME BURNS MARVIL

EVANSTON, Ill., Nov. 25.—(INS.)—Dallas Marvil, captain and all-America tackle of the Northwestern football team, is in the university infirmary suffering from severe burns sustained at Iowa City last Saturday from lime used to mark off the field.

(On request, sent with stamped addressed envelope, Ripley will send proofs and details of anything depicted by him in these cartoons.)

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: ETHAN DODDS, RECORD PATENT HOLDER—Ethan I. Dodds, of Central Valley, N. Y., amassed 1,800 patents in 25 years, at the rate of 72 a year. He made his first invention as a 7-year-old when he rigged up a contraption of wheels and belts to stir up apple butter which could be operated from his mother's rocking chair. He could not read at the age of 21, was sent away from college as hopeless after one week of study and started as a blacksmith's helper in the Westinghouse Works. He is rightly considered the pioneer in the line of invention relating to household work and railroad engineering. Many are the devices used by the modern housewife or railroad passenger which originated in Dodd's fertile brain. THE TOWER OF DEATH—The Tower of Death in Bukhara was erected by Tughluk khan of Turkestan, in the fourteenth century. It is a minaret decorated with azure-blue tiles and adjoins the Great Mosque of Bukhara. Once every week on Friday, the head priest of the city ascends to the top of the minaret to issue his call to prayer to the faithful below. For many centuries the tower served as the spot from which criminals were precipitated to their death 180 feet below. Combining the suggestiveness of religion and death, it is a famous "landmark" of the city. SNAKES HAVE NO EXTERNAL EARS—According to Dr. Raymond L. Ditmars, curator of reptiles at the New York Zoological Park, a snake has rudimentary ears under the skin, but it really hears with its tongue. The snake's long, pointed tongue that is so intriguing in its easy, flashing movement, is so sensitive to taste that it is practically an organ of smell also and it is sensitive enough to enable a snake to "tune in" on sound waves.

FRIDAY—A PUZZLING PROBLEM OF CRIME.

JONES FAVORS PITT, N. Y. U.

By TAD JONES
Member All America Board of Football.

The real lover of college football has at least two more days on which he can enjoy himself before the season draws to a formal close. There will be post-season games and charity games, but intercollegiate football ends this week in the East.

On Thanksgiving Day N. Y. U. and Carnegie Tech will offer the main attraction in New York. Carnegie has not fared too well this season, due chiefly to a real scarcity of seasoned players, and N. Y. U. has met with various and unexpected reverses. In spit of these, however, the N. Y. U. eleven is really a fine football team and one capable of reaching the heights. There is both offensive drive and defensive power in the rush line, and the backs are as fine as any gracing any varsity eleven in the East. N. Y. U. should win, but only after a desperate struggle.

Pittsburgh meets a strong Western opponent in Nebraska and should prove equal to the occasion. As far as the East is concerned, Pitt heads the list by virtue of its clean-cut victory over Army. Scores alone are not indicative of relative strength, but those who have seen the Pitt eleven know full well its real power.

Brown and Colgate meet at Providence in their annual battle, with Colgate a strong favorite to win. Colgate has lost only one game, that to N. Y. U. Brown has the defeat by Holy Cross to

THE COACH'S VIEWPOINT

By Howard Harpster

Tomorrow winds up the collegiate football schedule for 1931, only a few scattered intersectional and benefit games remaining to be played. . . Although there will be a comparatively few games staged on Thanksgiving Day, what is lacking in quantity will be made up in quality . . . What could be more satisfying after a large holiday dinner than to be present at one of the following games: Pitt-Nebraska, Carnegie Tech-New York U., Penn-Cornell, Colgate-Brown, Vanderbilt-Alabama, Oregon-St. Mary's or five or six other games between equally well-matched teams.

Howard Harpster

Locally, there is much interest concerning the outcome of Pitt's battle with the big Cornhusker squad from Nebraska, and Tech's encounter with Chick Meehan's New York team. . . Both of these games have developed into real battles because of the intense rivalry between the schools, resulting from the previous games played.

Nebraska will step onto the Stadium with the memory of an unexpected defeat it suffered at the Panthers' hands a few years ago. The Westerners having been made the favorites on that occasion, came out on the short end because of some wonderful work by Whitey Hagen and Gibby Welsh. . . Tomorrow the tables will be reversed so far as the setting for the game is concerned, for Pitt will enter the contest a popular favorite. . . The Panther stock has soared by leaps and bounds since its decisive victory over the powerful Army team. Nebraska has lost only one game, to Northwestern, on the first Saturday in October, and since has mowed down all obstacles to win the Big Six championship. . . My guess is that Pitt is in for a really hard game, and that it will have to repeat its fine play of the Army game to come out on top.

Carnegie Tech, after a two weeks' rest, is in New York for its final game of the regular season. . . The last appearance of this year's Tech team, however, will take place in the Stadium when the Tartans and Duquesne play in a charity game Saturday of next week. . . New York started off the present season with a great flurry and high hopes.

DUKES ADVANCE ON ALABAMA

The Duquesne University eleven team is en route to Birmingham, Ala., where tomorrow afternoon it will tackle Howard (Jr. college) in its final regularly scheduled game, although a benefit game immediately afterward for the charity game December 5 at the Stadium against Carnegie Tech. The Bluffite eleven is expected to arrive in Birmingham at 10 o'clock, a number of students giving them a send-off. Thirteen players were included in Head Coach Elmer Sowden's party.

Last season the Dukes defeated Howard, 14 to 0, in a night game at Forbes Field, and the Birmingham team is reported to have improved considerably since its previous appearance in Pittsburgh.

BULLDOGS PRIMED

The Howard Bulldogs, on its face, is an even match for the Dukes, as they have also been defeated twice by Alabama, 13 to 0 and 19 to 0, and Coach Eddie McLane has the Southerners in the best of form.

John D. Holahan, graduate manager of athletics, the Rev. Dr. James F. Carroll, vice president, the Rev. William J. O'Donnell, dean of men, Dr. Hugh C. Muldoon, Dr. J. D. O'Donnell, team physician, S. C. Isabella and Carmen Cozza, student managers, Cleveland K. Jackson, trainer, and George Kelly, publicity director, will be in the party.

Three teams made the trip South last season.

'HUSKERS READY FOR PANTHERS TOMORROW

The Lineup

By JESS CARVER

Larry Ely

RHEA BIG STAR

The appearance here of Rhea marks the third time this year an all-America tackle has invaded our midst. First it was Al Culver, of Notre Dame, and then Jack Price, of Army. These three were the leading all-American tackle combinations of the 1930 campaign.

Pitt's preparations for the very important contest with the Cornhuskers yesterday took a long and varied turn. The Panther 'Thanksgiving appear to be no relief for the same. It promises to finish as severe a test as any the team has been called upon to face. Not only are they faced against a team of great individual power and potential, although the Pitt are meeting an eleven that has been expected to be a struggle. Pitt will have to put out more to beat Nebraska than it did to whip Army, and more than was expected in beating Notre Dame.

He will team up with Whitey Feick and Cam Proudlock, and Norman Locking, who contributed a goal in making his debut Sunday in Detroit, may be given further opportunity to do his stuff in Proudlock's position.

The Ingram-Rodden-Abbott line rather ineffective and not at all impressive against Buffalo, so impressed Coach Charles Reid in Detroit that it probably will be moved back to the starting lineup position.

TO ASK WAIVERS

Coach Reid expects to sign a new center in addition to Barton, and he has announced that because of his oversupply of forwards he probably will ask waivers on two or more Jackets after tomorrow night's game. This threat of release is likely to serve as a spur to the local skaters and it may help to bring them the victory that is needed to put them up near the top of the heap.

By JULIUS LEVIN

One of the greatest scholastic football campaigns in years will be brought to a close in Western Pennsylvania tomorrow when high school elevens conclude their schedules with morning and afternoon games in commemoration of Thanksgiving Day.

The feature attraction is scheduled at Clairton where George Woodman's undefeated Clairton High eleven stacks up against the undefeated McKeesport grid machine geared to high perfection by Coach Bill Sullivan. Clairton will be seeking its tenth straight victory and McKeesport its ninth in a row. The hopes of both teams for consideration in the W. P. I. A. L. championship rest on the outcome of this important battle. Midland and Washington, the remaining two contenders already have concluded their campaigns without meeting a reverse.

NATURAL RIVALS

Out at Swissvale two natural rivals Edgewood undefeated but tied by Aspinwall and Swissvale renew their annual feud on the gridiron. Edgewood has beaten Swissvale for four straight years, and the home eleven is bent on turning the tables on Pickett's undefeated combine. This battle should prove a thriller.

The Monongahela Valley card features the morning tussle between Coach Ditty's Monessen eleven and Steve Stepanian's Charleroi machine. This game will be played at Charleroi and should attract a capacity crowd as the two clubs are sectional rivals.

The Westmoreland County championship hinges on the outcome of the Greensburg-Norwin battle at Greensburg. Greensburg is in a fighting mood following the drubbing it took from Wilkinsburg last Saturday, and may have a surprise in store for Jack Clawson and his Norwin giants. The Turtle Creek-Jeannette fray at Jeannette likewise should prove a thriller. Another good contest scheduled in that section is the Mt. Pleasant-Latrobe battle at Latrobe.

BEAVER VALLEY GAMES

Two important frays are scheduled in the Beaver Valley. The fur should fly in the New Brighton-Beaver Falls clash at Beaver Falls, while Beaver and Rochester also should provide plenty of fireworks at Rochester. Other district games find Dunbar at Connellsville, Apollo at Vandergrift, South Brownsville at Brownsville, Derry Township at Hurst, East Huntington at Youngwood and Franklin at Oil City.

Avalon High will put on a charity game for the benefit of the unemployed at Avalon, meeting a strong alumni eleven tomorrow afternoon.

Collecting Comic Stamps, New Sport

CARTOONIST JIMMY MURPHY . . . ORIGINATED COMIC STAMPS

Cartoon Clippings From Sun-Telegraph Eagerly Sought

A great new sport for children is sweeping the country this fall the collection of colorful comic stamps cut from the Comic Weekly Puck a part of the big Sunday edition of the Sun-Telegraph.

Credit for this idea must go to the ingenious and clever comic cartoonist, Jimmy Murphy, whose "Tools and Casper" funnies have been entertaining millions of persons daily and Sunday for years.

Murphy originated the comic stamps when he recalled his own desire for collecting things as a boy. In those days many manufacturing companies included colorful lithographs of famous people, flags and animals in their packages.

TIMES CHANGE

It was every boy's ambition to obtain collections of these pictures, and many a skillful trader of later life obtained his first experience in the brisk bartering for rare and cherished specimens.

Murphy says:

"Times seem to have changed in business. Advertising men rightly regard newspapers as better mediums for attracting buyers for their merchandise, so package goods do not contain pictures to collect any more.

"The comic stamp appealed to me as a substitute in affording the modern boy and girl a chance to have as much fun as I did in making my collections.

"I think these stamps, which are every bit as colorful as the pictures of my boyhood, will interest the parents, too, because they will awaken memories long dormant.

"The series will include many famous characters who no longer lend their gaiety to the comic pages—Buster Brown, The Yellow Kid, Nemo, and dozens of others. The youngsters of today may not recall them, but the older folks will—and that should make them take an interest in the collections of their youngsters."

PLAN IS SIMPLE

The collection of comic stamps is made simple through Jimmy Murphy's plan to run them in the weekly comic section. The same medium that entertains the whole family will provide the children with the material for their albums. All that is needed is scissors and pastepot and the Comic Weekly Puck of the Sunday Sun-Telegraph.

Educators have recognized the value of making collections in developing the orderly habits in children. Every adult should encourage the children they know to assemble a complete collection of these stamps. They will be found only in the Sunday Sun-Telegraph. Be sure to get it every Sunday.

POLICE SHOOT MAN IN BATTLE

Charles Boch, 41, was in Allegheny General Hospital today with bullet wounds in his arm and body inflicted police say, in an exchange of shots when he defied three North Side patrolmen seeking to enter his home, 1408 DeHart street late last night.

From the doorway of his home Boch fired his shotgun and the charge barely missed Patrolmen George Moelter, John Miller and Frank Lindner, who were standing in the darkness four feet away.

The officers had been summoned to the home by Mrs. Clara Boch, who complained that her husband was disorderly. When the woman told Patrolman Miller that her husband threatened to shoot any policeman that entered the house, Miller called the radio car operated by Moelter and Lindner.

Moelter threw the rays of his flashlight on the entrance to locate Boch, and he, the officers say, opened fire.

Both Moelter and Miller answered the fire. The man dropped in the doorway.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Democratic organization of the new House appears certain as a result of the party's victory in the Fourteenth Texas congressional district yesterday at a special election.

The new lineup:

Democrats, 218; Republicans, 214; Farmer Laborite 1; vacancies 2.

The outcome encouraged the Democratic membership as the leaders laid plans to elect Representative John N. Garner, of Texas, as speaker and take over the House after 13 years of Republican domination.

"I like a clean smoke AND A CLEAN BREATH!"

"I guess I'm what they call an 'endless chain smoker'... lighting the next cigarette from the stub of the last. But I've never greeted the family with tainted breath. Not me! I smoke OLD GOLDS!

"The low-down is this... OLD GOLDS are made of fine tobacco, and nothin' else but. They don't put in added flavors...

"Nature did all the sweetenin' in the tobacco! So OLD GOLDS don't scent up the breath and clothes.

"An OLD GOLD is a grand smoke. But it leaves nothing behind except a pleasant recollection."

Baldwin Locomotive Omits Preferred Dividend

By GEORGE H SNYDER

OMISSION OF THE PREFERRED dividend of the Baldwin Locomotive Works was in recognition of the sharp curtailment in railroad equipment buying and of the fact that the present financial difficulties of the steam lines make a recovery in the demand for locomotives in the near future improbable.

This action followed the discontinuance of semi-annual common dividends of 87½ cents earlier in the year.

Baldwin has been going through a long period of poor business which has been attributable to greater railroad operating efficiency and the failure of the carriers to increase their business in the face of the competition of other forms of transportation.

The company's record of past earnings has been erratic, reflecting the abrupt changes in the purchases of railroad equipment. Baldwin had a good year in 1926, but failed to fully cover its dividend requirements in the three following years. The common dividend remained unchanged at an annual rate of $1.75 a share through this period because the company was in a strong financial position and it was thought that a resumption of locomotive buying was not far off.

Good Year in 1930

THIS BELIEF WAS JUSTIFIED in 1929 when the volume of business increased substantially. Net profit increased from $332,211 or $1.66 a share on the 7 per cent preferred stock in 1928 to $2,300,463 or $1.07 a share on the common stock in 1929. A large portion of the 1929 business was carried over into 1930 and the railroads continued to buy new equipment early in that year so that profit for 1931 was $3,036,624 or $1.94 a share on the common. This was the first year since 1926 in which earnings exceeded dividend requirements.

Baldwin is expected to report a loss for the present year. Net loss was $1,775,536 in the first half and there have been no developments to change the situation recently. In the first 10 months of the year bookings were $19,428,000 as compared with $31,893,000 in the corresponding period of last year. Shipments were $19,533,000 against $50,448,000. Unfilled orders on October 31 were $8,638,000 against $12,532,000 a year ago.

Real Estate Holdings

IN THE DAYS OF BULL markets, Baldwin was a center of speculative interest, not because of its earning possibilities, but because of its real estate holdings. Several years ago the principal plant was moved from Philadelphia to Eddystone, 12 miles away. This left 161 acres of vacant property at Broad and Eddystone streets, close to the center of the city.

The possibility that Baldwin may some day reap a handsome profit from the sale of this land has frequently kindled stock market enthusiasm. But the company has not been able to sell the major part of the property at a price which directors believe to be satisfactory. This property is still Baldwin's ace in the hole and undoubtedly will receive new attention when stocks turn upward.

The financial position is excellent. Funded debt amounted to only $16,419,000, exclusive of bonds held in the sinking fund, at the close of 1930. Against this physical properties were carried at $52,880,260 after deducting depreciation reserves. Total assets stood at $100,151,710.

Current assets at the end of 1930 amounted to $28,095,393 against current liabilities of $3,087,877. Cash amounted to $12,703,575, treasury notes to $750,000 and other securities to $1,058,261. The 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock amounted to $20,000,000. There were 843,000 shares of common stock outstanding.

SILK RATES LOWERED

The Silk Association of America announced that a reduction in trans-continental freight rates on raw silk from $9 a hundred pounds to $6 has been approved by executives of the trans-continental lines and the Eastern trunk line, bringing the railroads into competitive positions with the Panama Canal, which has been attracting considerable raw silk traffic due to lower rates. The request for the reduction was made three years ago by the transportation committee of the association.

WHEAT PRICES SEEK RESERVE TURN DOWN ACT CHANGE

CHICAGO, Nov. 25. (Sharp downturns in grain prices early today followed a decree compelling Premier millers to use 97 per cent of native wheat instead of only 90. Liverpool reported entire absence of inquiry for actual wheat with liquidation general and traders lacking confidence. Opening 1¼@1⅝c lower, Chicago wheat futures continued downward. Corn started ⅝ to 1¼c off and later held near the initial balance.

Drastic curtailment of France's allowance of wheat imports put an immediate crimp in the wheat market here, furnishing incentive to bears and tending to diminish speculative buying. This effect was intensified later by statements from a British trade authority that Germany would take steps to facilitate imports of Russian wheat, rye and barley in exchange for manufactured articles. Official advices that soil moisture in Western Kansas was still deficient and that the crop condition was only 40 to 60 per cent of normal failed to act as an offset.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25. (AP)—Changes in the reserve requirements of Federal Reserve Member banks which would act as a brake on speculative excesses have been recommended to the Federal Reserve Board by a committee which has been studying the subject.

At present all member banks must carry a 3 per cent reserve against time deposits, 13 per cent against demand deposit at central reserve city banks, 10 per cent at reserve city banks and 7 per cent at the so-called country banks. The new proposals by the committee on bank reserves of the Federal Reserve System urge that these distinctions be dropped. Instead, they recommended all member banks be required to carry a reserve of 5 per cent against their net deposits and in addition a reserve equal to 76 per cent of the average daily turnover of deposits with a maximum total reserve of 15 per cent of gross deposits.

The proposed change in the Federal Reserve law, the committee said, would require banks during speculative booms to carry heavier reserves than in the past.

The committee urged that the law be amended so that cash in a bank's vault could be included in the reserves and reserves would thus be defined as balances carried with Federal Reserve banks and cash in the vault.

German Market Closed Until 1932

BERLIN, Nov. 25. The German government and the Reichsbank have declined to give assent to re-opening of the bourse, fearing a further increase in general nervousness if quotations show substantial changes. Agreements on reparations and maintenance and safety of the German exchange are deemed necessary before the stock market can work normally. Therefore, it is probable that no re-opening will take place during 1931.

WESTINGHOUSE, STEEL MAKE NEW LOWS

Fresh Weakness Appears In Financial Markets; Rail Shares Head Slump

NEW YORK, Nov. 25 (AP.) — Fresh weakness appeared in the leading financial markets today.

Selling of wheat and other grains, inability of cotton to hold yesterday's gains, weakness of the pound sterling and the heavier tone of bar silver contributed to selling in the stock market. Discouraged security holders apparently abandoned hope of early settlement of the railway wage problem and saw little of cheer in various trade reports. Activity at times was heavier than in preceding market sessions of this week.

Publication of additional railroad earning reports for October disclosing shrinkage of more than 25 per cent in revenues as compared with last year and the car-loading total which was down a shade more on the week than seasonal caused early selling in the rails and in the afternoon this spread to other sections of the list.

New lows were made by Atchison which was off around 4 points, by Union Pacific which gave way more than 3 and by Southern Pacific, New Haven, Pennsylvania, New York Central and Baltimore and Ohio among others which lost 1 to more than 2. United States Steel, Westinghouse Electric and International Telephone likewise went to new low ground, the first named responding to reports of slackened steel production with a loss of over 3 points.

Railroad wage adjustments will apparently consume more time than had been anticipated.

A note of moderate cheerfulness was furnished in the Iron Age report which, while it showed a decline in production rate to 29 per cent of capacity, expressed hope that release of orders from automobile manufacturers might be quickened next month by Ford's activities.

Decrease of 3.9 per cent in electric output for the week ended November 21, compared with the same week of last year, was relatively better than for any week since last October 3. The decline reported in the preceding week was 5.2 per cent.

Little change was evident in the money markets, with call money continuing at 2½ per cent. Somewhat better demand was reported for bills.

COTTON LOSES EARLY GAIN

NEW YORK, Nov. 25 — Cotton opened steady today, 3 points higher on December and generally 1 to 2 points lower for other months on realizing and some southern selling. Trading was rather quiet.

Trading became somewhat more active after the first few minutes with more selling in evidence on the easier opening of the wheat market and the easier ruling of stocks. By the end of the first half hour January sold off to 6.19 and May to 6.57 or about 12 to 17 points net lower.

Expectations of increased hedging in advance of tomorrow's holidays probably contributed to the decline while after the covering and advance of yesterday there was a disposition to expect pre-holiday realizing.

Liverpool cables reported Bombay and continental buying with limited offerings, but said that the demand for cotton goods in Manchester was unequal to the output.

The weakness in the grain and stock markets seemed to stimulate selling later in the morning and prices worked off to 6.16 for January and 6.51 for May, making net declines of about 17 to 23 points on active positions. There was some covering and trade buying on the scaledown, but slight bulges seemed to meet increased offerings and the market was within a point or two of the lowest at midday.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25 — Selling pressure was somewhat more insistent on the curb market today. Although the tone of the previous session had been slightly better, the absence of active short covering on Tuesday probably encouraged renewed offerings and after a steady opening the market turned heavy.

'Honeybunches'

Wishes Every Little Girl of Pittsburgh and Vicinity a Happy

Thanksgiving Day

Read Today's Doll Lady Message:—

Dear Little Girls:—

I had a lot of invitations from little girls to come to their homes and enjoy Thanksgiving dinner with them, but I couldn't accept any of them. I'm too busy getting ready to send my best wishes for a real Thanksgiving to you little girls.

Isn't "Honeybunch" Really Cute?

I had a lot of invitations from little girls to come to their homes and enjoy Thanksgiving dinner with them, but I couldn't accept any of them. I'm too busy getting ready to send my best wishes for a real Thanksgiving to you little girls.

The smart little girls are not waiting until Christmas for their "Honeybunch." They are getting busy now so they'll have their dolls in plenty of time to celebrate the holidays. If you really want a "Honeybunch" now, there is no time to get her. Yes, I have plenty of dolls but the rush is going to be so big in another week that it will take a little longer to get a doll to you than it will at this time.

As I said yesterday, "Honeybunch" has already met with a popularity that I hardly dared to anticipate. Every little girl who has had this marvelous baby doll in her arms gets thrilled with excitement. Why shouldn't she? "Honeybunch" is so different from other dolls—she's just a gorgeous big beauty with a charming, yours marvelous organdy clothes in dainty colors, lace trimmed and a cute lace cap to match. She has the cutest shoes and stockings you ever saw, rubber arms and hands that move just like those of a real live baby, and to crown it all, eyes that open and shut. She has a pacifier, and, believe it or not, she has rubber panties.

Incidentally, "Honeybunch" is covered by patents and is not on sale in any of the stores. You can only get her from the Sun-Telegraph Doll Lady—that's me.

I am particularly delighted this year because the Sun-Telegraph has made it so easy for you to get a "Honeybunch." If you want one of these marvelous dollies all for yourself and will promise to do something for me, I'll write and tell you just what to do. Send me your name and address on the coupon in this announcement and I'll send you a letter of instructions and a fine colored picture of "Honeybunch."

Here are the names of some of the little girls who have already written to me: Priscilla Dodge, Mary Virginia Fox, Audrey Cain, Jane Anne McPherson, Mary Ann Pittman, Lois Jean Lloyd, Dorothy Cahill, Gertrude Ketter, Lillian Ley, Thelma Driver, Sally Barber, Betty Zorn, Gladys Sennett, Tessa Nuler and Patricia Gettis.

Imogen Apologizes to Laurel For Hitting Her With Glass of Liquor

"Whoopie! Laurel tell me did you or didn't you fall for him?"

Synopsis

Laurel Oakes, 19, thoroughly modern, finds that she will be alone at dinner. She flirts with Roger Sartoris, 29, blase, jaded young man who is infatuated with her. Imogene Gay invites Laurel to a "moonlight party." Laurel drives her roadster out to a deserted farm house where she finds many of her friends intoxicated, having a gay time. The party becomes rowdy and Imogene hits Laurel with a glass. Laurel runs from the house. Finding her tires slashed she runs down the road and is rescued by young Dr. Bruce Harvey, who knows her mother. He takes Laurel home. The next day Laurel tells her mother that pleasure means more to her than love or romance.

Now Go On

[illegible] don't much remember anything.

That was Imogene's last lighthearted. After the way Roger's run after me and all, I'm sure he's acted pretty rotten to her.

Oh, be yourself, Jim. Rogers nothing in my young life as I said before. And I didn't come here for any elimination contest.

Imogene's face cleared. Laurel went on. A pretty wild bunch, what? Was it you who chased me through the spooky wilderness?

Roger left after you when you dashed away. Afterwards, when they found your car still there and the tire cut, I believe they started a sort of search party. Didn't any of them overtake you? Tell me what happened.

Laurel related her meeting with the handsome young doctor. At its conclusion Imogene gave a long whistle. "Whoopie! Laurel tell me did you or didn't you fall for him?"

Mr. Hurley Finds 'Financial Unrest'

By Claude G. Bowers

Mr. Patrick Hurley, Secretary of War, opened the Republican campaign in a political address the other night before the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York. It was carefully, even cautiously, prepared, and may be accepted as the administration's bid for approval, since the speaker admitted that it was an administration utterance. He began with the admission, with a drawing room conservatism of phrasing, that we are "passing through a period of financial unrest."

With seven millions out of jobs, with unemployment increasing during the last month by 2.2 per cent, with hundreds of thousands facing eviction in the beginning of winter, with bread lines and soup houses everywhere, we do indeed have some "financial unrest."

The financial unrest, it seems is not financial since we have had depressions before. And government is not responsible, or the party in power is not responsible and [illegible] of all the administration responsible.

Many who voted for Mr. Hoover because of his dramatic promise to eliminate poverty, many who supported his party on his assurance that the party had placed business upon the basis of permanent prosperity, many who remember the perennial claim that Cleveland brought the "financial unrest" of '93 will be astonished to learn from the same lips that government and party policies have nothing to do with prosperity.

How will he remember the promises of the administration's friends? Uncle Joe Cannon asked an audience in Washington not long ago: "Who will be responsible for the Democratic party and the people during"

Suffering Is Due to the Administration's Sins

The purpose of Mr. Hurley's speech is clear. It is to shift responsibility for the present suffering from the shoulders of the administration to the shoulders of the people. It is to say that the people have brought this suffering upon themselves by their sins. It is to say that the people have brought this suffering upon themselves by their sins. It is to say that the people have brought this suffering upon themselves by their sins.

Fails to Tell

In enumerating the people's sins of the administration Mr. Hurley omitted together with a gesture the things accomplished and the things the administration wanted to do but was forced upon by the bankers.

He fell to mention the conference in Washington with representatives of labor and management when the administration asked for a program of public works to relieve unemployment. He failed to mention the Wagner bill which the administration defeated. He failed to mention the Norris bill which the administration defeated. He failed to mention the Black bill which the administration defeated. He failed to mention the Costigan bill which the administration defeated. He failed to mention the Wagner bill which the administration defeated. He failed to mention the Norris bill which the administration defeated. He failed to mention the Black bill which the administration defeated. He failed to mention the Costigan bill which the administration defeated.

A Typical Administration Speech

Here we have a typical administration speech.

It mentions everything the people are suffering from except the real cause. It mentions everything the people are suffering from except the real cause. It mentions everything the people are suffering from except the real cause. It mentions everything the people are suffering from except the real cause. It mentions everything the people are suffering from except the real cause. It mentions everything the people are suffering from except the real cause. It mentions everything the people are suffering from except the real cause. It mentions everything the people are suffering from except the real cause.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

You blame your oldtime friends for not continuing the warm friendship which once existed between you.

You have been surprised and hurt at times when on your long vacations away from home you have called on them at their homes.

They did not give you the preference to some of their newly-formed friendships in the places where they live.

You thought they should have proclaimed you as nearest and dearest.

Because of the long years ago that your friendship was formed you had an idea that would give you a closer tie at any later period.

Have you given your friends the sort of treatment accorded you?

When they were visiting at your home did you break any appointments or engagements to give them more of your time?

Perhaps you could not be blamed if you did not give up all your time to the visiting guest but neither should you consume your former friends if they chose to keep previously made dates with friends in the town where they live.
